STATE, COUNTY WIN IN TRIAL OVER CROSSING

Granted Authority To Construct Road Over Line of C., D. & M.

INJUNCTION DISSOLVED

Judge Holds People's Rights Cannot Be Interfered With by Private Interests

Suit over construction of a crossing over the C., D. & M. tracks at Newman's, two miles north of Prospect, resulted in a victory for the state highway department and the Marion County Board of Commissioners in Common Pleas court this morning.

Holding that the people's rights in the use of public highways can not be interferred with by private interests, Judge Scofield ruled that the state and county have absolute authority to establish the C., D. & M. crossing as they see fit, provided they keep within limtis of the road right-of-way.

In handing down his decision, the judge said that the road was laid out long before the C., D. & M. was constructed and that the interurban company is without authority to dictate a change in its course or dimensions.

Started Two Years Ago

The suit was started about two years ago by the C., D. & M. to prevent the state from building the crossing according to plans outlined by the highway department. A temporary injunction was granted and this injunction was dissolved by Judge Scofield's decree today.

Unless the C., D. & M. carries the case to a higher court, construction of the crossing will get under way at once with the work being done in accordance with the highway department's plans.

Indicates Appeal

W. P. Moloney, attorney for the C., D. & M. indicated that an appeal action would probably be started and Judge Scofield fixed the appeal bond at $2,500.

The plan proposed by the state and county provides for a straight line crossing running at an oblique angle over the C., D. & M. tracks. The in...

Arrangements were made for a series of art lectures for art students to be given here next year by Carl Bolander of Columbus, instructor in the Columbus Art Institute.

It was decided to hold next year's meetings the second Monday of the month instead of the second Thursday as formerly.

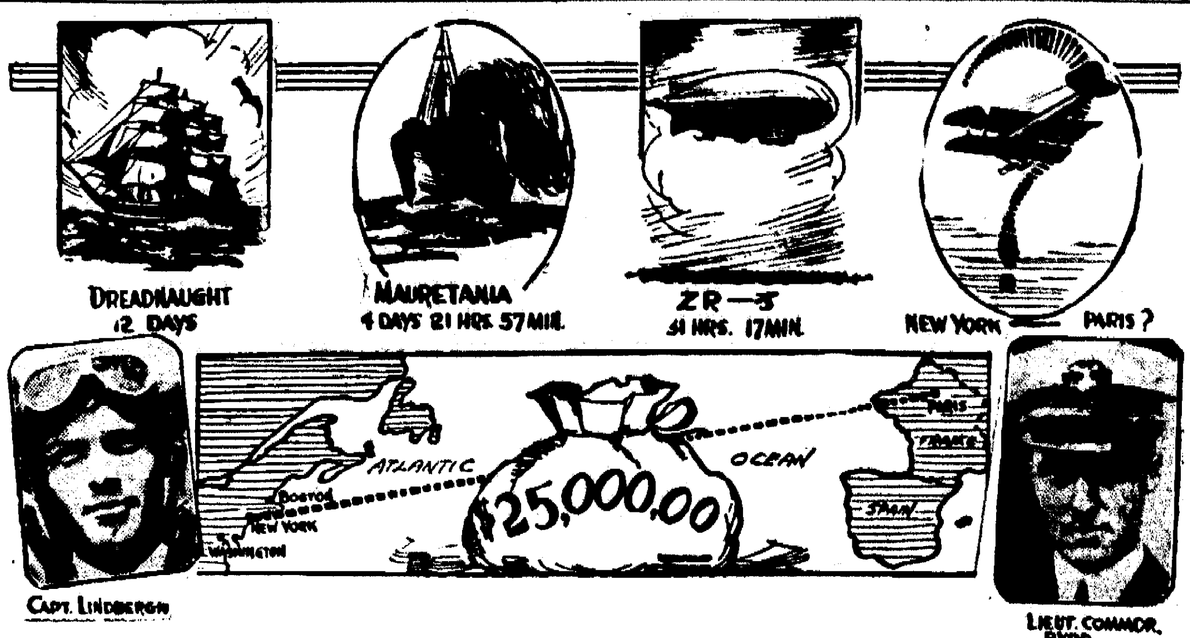
U. S. Fliers Make Their Final Preparations



What does the future hold for the American fliers, pictured above, in their attempts to make a non-stop flight across the Atlantic Ocean from New York to Paris? The artist's drawing above reveals the history of oceanic travel. The photo inset at the left is Captain Lindbergh, daredevil who will attempt the flight by himself in his plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis." Inset at the right is Lieut. Commdr. Richard Byrd who also is ready to take off. The group photo, lower left, shows last minute preparations for the take off of "The Columbia," to be flown by Bertaud and Chamberlin. In the group are seen the plane itself; Bertaud, left, and Chamberlin, right, inspecting the kite that carries aerial aloft if their plane is forced to descend to the water; Mrs. Bertaud, left, and Mrs. Chamberlin, right, preparing food for their aviator husbands; and lower right, Brice Goldsborough, compass expert, adjusting compasses, one of the last steps. To the right of the group photo are closeups of Bertaud, above, and Chamberlin, below.

AMERICA ON EVE OF GREAT AIR CONTEST

Arrival of Youthful Lindbergh in New York After Dashing Flight from St. Louis and San Diego Speeds Preparations of Other Contenders

ALL PROSPECTIVE TRANSATLANTIC PILOTS READY

Bertaud and Chamberlin in Race with Lindbergh for Honor of Getting Away First; Byrd Likely To Be Last To Hop Off from Gotham

Mineola, N. Y., May 13—America is on the eve of what promises to be the most spectacular air race ever attempted—a non-stop flight of 3,600 miles from New York to Paris. Three planes are ready for the hop-off when weather conditions permit. They are the Bellanca biplane, "Columbia," manned by Aviators Lloyd Bertaud and Clarence Chamberlin; the Ryan monoplane, "Spirit of St. Louis," manned by Capt. Charles Lindbergh, and the tri-motor Fokker plane, "America," manned by Richard E. Byrd. Byrd probably will be the last to get away.

BULLETIN

Curtiss, Field, N. Y., May 13—Rain, fog and northeasterly head winds make is practically certain that the Bellanca monoplane Columbia will not take off for Paris tomorrow morning as planned, and may cause postponement of the proposed New York-Paris hop until Sunday, it was said this afternoon by Lloyd W. Bertaud pilot and navigator of the plane.

A preliminary weather report received from the weather bureau in New York caused him to be pessimistic about the plan to get away early tomorrow morning.

• • •

Mineola, N. Y., May 13—With Capt. Charles Nungesser and Capt. Francois Coli still missing and no trace of their airplane discovered by searching ships, final plans were made at the Curtiss and Roosevelt Flying Fields today for an attempted non-stop flight from New York to Paris over practically the same route that the ill-fated French airmen planned to follow.

Aviators Lloyd Bertaud and Clarence Chamberlin had hoped to be able to hop off this morning in their big Bellanca machine, "the Columbia," but reports of weather conditions over the Atlantic were so unfavorable that they decided to wait. They are hopeful of getting away tonight or tomorrow.

Capt. Charles Lindbergh, the human meteor, who nonchalantly flew 2,500 miles from San Diego, Calif., to Curtiss flying field in 21 hours and 20 minutes, is all set to hop off in his monoplane alone. He may leave any time. He is not operating on set schedule.

Spectacular Airman

Lindbergh is the most spectacular of the airmen who will attempt the long journey to the French capital. Only 25 years old, he has escaped death by a hair's breadth half a dozen times.

The third plane groomed for the sensational transatlantic trip is a gigantic Fokker called "the America." This mahline, which is equipped with three powerful motors, will be in command of Commander Richard E. Byrd, hero of the north pole flight. This machine reached Roosevelt Field late yesterday just after Lindbergh's monoplane had swooped to earth on the Curtiss Field.

"The America" still is being groomed and tuned up by mechanicians, but Commander Byrd said he is ready to start at any time. He may get away within 47 hours if weather conditions are favorable.

"Lucky" Lindbergh, as his fellow airmen call him, is not making any great preparations for the big hop. He overhauled his monoplane to see that the mechanism was working smoothly and tested the gear, but is not doing much in the way of securing personal comforts.

Too Busy for Coffee

"I do not even know if I will take any hot coffee supply," said the young daredevil of the skies. "I will want some sandwiches and plenty of drinking water, but I don't think I will be long enough on the way to suffer very much from hunger. I am going to be busy watching the board."

Lindbergh referred to the instrument board in front of the pilot's seat. The array of shining instruments attached to this item of equipment is an imposing one. They include a temperature gauge, oil pressure gauge, tachometer, altimeter, turn and bank indicator, speed timer, earth inductor compass and a time clock. In addition there is the lower end of a periscope for the machine is so built that the pilot from his low cockpit can look only out the side windows. He must use the periscope to look ahead.

Lindbergh will fly for the $25,000 prize offered by Raymond Orteig for a successful non-stop flight between New York and Paris.

Lindbergh entered formally in the competition for the $25,000, 60 days in advance of start. This was one of the conditions.

"I know it's a great span of water but I don't see why such a fuss should be made over it. I am going to look upon it as though it were my regular mail from St. Louis to Chicago," he said.

Since 1922 when the flier was a student at the University of Wisconsin studying mechanical engineering and the "flying bug got him" he has looked on aviation as his job. So the flight to Paris is all in a day's work. Lindbergh says there is nothing to get excited about because if he hadn't every confidence of landing in France 36 hours after leaving New York he wouldn't make the trip.

Lindbergh's mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, lives in Detroit where the flier was born in 1902. His father, Charles Lindbergh, died two years ago. For 10 years he was a congressman from Little Falls, Minn.

As Captain Lindbergh, Clarence Chamberlain, and Commander Richard Byrd shook hands at the former's hangar they gave no indication of their rivalry save in a laughing promise to hold a reunion in Paris.

NAVY PLANS TO AID U. S. FLIERS

Washington, May 13—Elaborate preparations have been made by the coast guard to protect and guide the American aviators who are planning to hop off shortly on non-stop flights to Paris, it was announced today.

A mixed detachment of aircraft, cutters and destroyers will be strung out to one for 1,200 miles, about one-third of the distance to Paris. Officials said that the first part of the long hop was the most dangerous, and if the fliers get past the Grand Banks their chances for success will be exceedingly favorable.

RUTH SNYDER AND GRAY TO DIE WEEK OF JUNE 20

Sentence Passed on Convicted Couple by Justice in Crowded Courtroom

Courthouse, Long Island City, N. Y., May 13—Ruth Brown Snyder and her one-time sweetheart, Henry Judd Gray, were sentenced today to die in the electric chair in Sing Sing the week of June 20.

In the same courtroom where they were found guilty of the sashweight murder of Albert Snyder, the art editor who "didn't understand" his uprightly blonde wife, sentence was imposed upon them by Supreme Court Justice Townsend Scudder.

Doom of the convicted couple was pronounced on "Friday the Thirteenth" and the terrifying significance of the sentence was accentuated by the slow, sonorous tones of the judge as he pronounced it.

She Is Sentenced First

Mrs. Snyder was sentenced first. She heard the fateful words calmly, without any outward show of emotion. She wore the same black coat, black hat and jet beads which she wore throughout the trial. Before coming into court she showed her vanity by washing and arranging her hair and polishing her nails.

She stood before the judge's bench between two prison matrons.

John Moran, clerk of court, turned to her and asked:

"Have you anything to say before sentence of this court is passed upon you?"

She did not reply, but turned to Ju...

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture in County in Interest of War on Borer

Renick W. Dunlap, Washington, Issues Statement Indicating Need of Immediate Action in This Locality; Views Several Farms in Quarantine Area

Arrangements were completed yesterday for a thorough clean-up of the corn borer quarantine area in Marion County when Renick W. Dunlap, Washington, assistant secretary of agriculture, visited the county and issued a statement indicating the need of immediate action in this locality.

This was teh only county visited by Mr. Dunlap on his trip to Central Ohio, which is regarded as evidence that federal and state authorities are to carry on an especially vigorous clean-up drive in this loality.

The northern tier of nine townships in Marion County are in the quarantine area. The quarantine border line passes directly east and west through the county. Authorities in charge of the corn borer fight have stated that the border counties must be swept absolutely clean if progress of the infestation is to be checked.

Views Fields

Mr. Dunlap was in the county several hours. In company with Foster I. Fields, corn borer supervisor in Marion and Wyandot Counties and Homer Morris, personal representative of L. H. Worthley of Toledo, corn borer administrator in five states, he viewed some of the Marion County fields where both if any effort has been made by land owners in compliance with the cleanup regulations.

Following the inspection, Mr. Dunlap stated that there is apparently plenty of evidence in Marion County to warrant early activity on the part of state forces for a "more thorough clean-up."

Cites Regulations

He stated that the whole battle is against the corn borer and not against the farmer and that the regulations call for complete destruction of remnants of last year's corn crop regardless of the acreage or circumstances of the land owners.

Mr. Dunlap denied that the department of agriculture at Washington has been requested to show leniency toward Marion County land owners, reports to that effect having been in circulation here.

"Favoritism absolutely cannot be tolerated if we expect to retard the advance of the corn borer," he stated.

Mr. Dunlap went from Marion to Cleveland and then to Detroit to meet officials of the eastern and western offices in charge of the corn borer work.

Conference Held

Following the visit of Dunlap, a conference of Marion County's four corn borer inspectors was held at headquarters on Hilltop and their assignments for the coming season were made.

LEAPS TO GROUND, THEN RESCUES HIS FAMILY

Makes Eight Trips For Wife and Children Despite His Injuries

Scanton, Pa., May 13—Leaping from a second story window of his home at Peckville, near here early today when he discovered the building in flames, John Darphosky, 37, carried his wife and seven children to safety down a ladder, making eight trips despite the fact that he was badly hurt in the leap.

Darphosky collapsed after the last trip, and was rushed to a hospital, where his condition was reported as serious. His home was destroyed by the fire.

Chief Justice Taft Says Too Many Who Delay Criminal Law Operations

Washington, May 13—The legal profession has too many members who delay effective operation of criminal law, according to Chief Justic William Howard Taft of the U. S. Supreme Court.

"No lover of his country can have gone through the last four years without being offended over the failure of the administration of our criminal law," said the chief justice, addressing the American law institute. "We love our profession, but we know we have drawn," referring to those lawyers who use expedients in delay.

The chief justice said, however, he believed conditions were beginning to...

Promise to Hold Reunion in Paris

Mineola, N. Y., May 13—As casually as if he were planning a week-end trip to Atlantic City, Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, "kid flier" and "the flyin' fool," motored today from Garden City Hotel to Curtiss Field and greeted the men whom he intends to defeat in a race to Paris.

In his pocket was a toothbrush and comb—his total personal baggage. He refused to contribute anything extraordinary to his accomplishments or his plans.

Slim, quiet and extremely boyish, Captain Lindbergh repeatedly disproved the fear he is about to undertake, and said:

"I am not making much fuss about my preparations.

"I don't think there is any thing to the whole thing, so there is no use to make much fuss about it."

...transatlantic trip. If a plane comes down in the mountains, what's going to pick it up? At sea there is a fair chance of sighting a ship."

The "kid's plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," carries no radio apparatus.

He disposes with compass and all other navigating instruments and plans are across by "dead reckoning" or compass readings.

He has a habit of flying alone and on two occasions has flown from San Diego, Calif., to New York in a single hop, for his only navigating aid when he was the only occupant of the plane.

Marion Woman on World Tour Writes of Experiences While Visiting in Japan

"One may like Chinese, Siamese, Filipino, or Polynesian types of beauty but it is that of Japan that interests me most," said Mrs. Grace Sifritt, 379 S. State-st, who is touring the world aboard the S. S. Resolute in company with her brother, Ralph Parlette, well known lecturer, in a recent letter to The Star. The letter was written "under the shadow of Fujiyama," Mrs. Sifritt writes.

"Our first docking in the vicinity of Japan was at Miyazoke, one of the trinity of famous views and advertised by a trillion post card pictures. Here we had a feeling of explicit righteousness in laziness," the letter began.

"A Buddhist shrine we found here, the latter greatly interesting as since a sacred fire, kindled there years ago is still burning. It is said no one ever dies or is born here.

"This sacred island is in the inland sea. One of the most picturesque sights of the island is of the junks coming in from distant ports. The latter are manned by men, women, and children as naive as if they had come sailing from Eden.

"A night's ride brought us to Kobe. In its 'close-up' Kobe looks common place although a sweeping view of the town from the harbor is a striking picture. At night the many lights encircling the city make it resemble a glow worm.

"Osaka, a thriving little business city not far from Kobe, is where the Oriental and Occidental are side by side.

Visit Old Capitol

"From there we went to Kyoto, the old capitol of Japan. The Japanese in feudal days thought of their eastern and western capital as being the same city despite their separation of more than 300 miles. These cities have a common street—Tokaido Dori—which begins in one and ends in another. A road of steel parallels this old street.

"Most of the main railways in Japan are government owned and their trains are very comfortable. At some of the city depots they have megaphone announcers, who, after calling the cities, say something like this, 'Don't forget your packages' or 'We are sorry to have kept you waiting'—even though the train be exactly on time. I have never seen such politeness in any land as in Japan.

"We rickishawed all over Kyoto and it would take pages to tell of its beautiful temples and palaces.

Sacred Deer

"Nara, an hour's ride from Osaka, has its 800 sacred deer. The Japanese come here from everywhere to see the deer and worship in Nara's sacred temples. We watched a few hundred visit such a temple and pray to a huge Buddha. They made their prayers on rice paper, chewing them into round balls and throwing them at their God. If the paper sticks their prayers are answered, but if it falls they must pray again. All the umbrellas of the vicinity were covered with 'spitballs' or in Japanese language, 'unanswered prayers.'

"Our steamer ploughed its way eastward and early in the morning we came to the ruins of the city of Yokohama. One minute before 12 o'clock on Sept. 1, 1920, this city was destroyed by an earth quake. We used our steamer for a hotel for none were left standing here.

Make Shift Offices

"Little one-story rooms are used for business as well as a number of make-shift offices. A new electric railroad had recently been built from Yokohama to Tokio—a distance of 18 miles with an electric train every 12 minutes. My most vivid impression of Tokio was its wonderful hotel built by a Mr. Wood of Chicago. It seems strange to journey around the world and be impressed by the novelty of a hotel but I venture many of our fellow cruisers will remember this hotel long after the shrines are forgotten.

Find Bronze Idol

"Fifteen miles from Tokio we found the famous bronze Buddha at Kamakuva, a little summer resort on the Mississippi Bay. The spiritual calm portrayed in its face is a living message, the message born of understanding. It stands 50 feet high, the eyes alone being four feet in dreath. There are 820 curls on its head and a shrine located at the rear of its head, where many worship.

"We visited many more Japanese cities and in each one found the same courteous people. The shop keepers 'thank you' for coming in their shops, follow you to the door and again 'thank you' for looking at their goods and kindly tell you where they think you will find anything you wanted and with which the were unable to supply you.

"We are now saying good-bye to Japan and sailing for Honolulu—Uncle Sam's country.

SHELL GASOLINE

Many Points of Superiority!

The success of 400 "Extra Dry" Shell — its swift sweep into popular favor — is easily explained.

Motorists everywhere were awaiting an opportunity to buy a superior gasoline at no advance in price — and Shell met this demand with 400 "Extra Dry."

Still SHELL—but brought to a higher degree of power and efficiency—by lowering the end point to 400°—the most radical departure in gasoline refining of recent years.

"400° End Point" is a technical term well-known in the industry, and means that a lower temperature has been applied in the process of refining, thus taking LESS but a FINER grade of gasoline from the crude.

As a result, 400 "Extra Dry" is superior in every vital quality that affects the performance of your car — a gasoline of greater power, quicker response, cleaner burning, with less crankcase dilution—and best of all, costs you no more than the ordinary kind.

Today — "Change to Shell" — and let its superior quality speak for itself. Fill the tank with 400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline —fill the crankcase with Shell Motor Oil— then you will have the perfectly balanced combination that will bring out the best in your car and add immeasurably to the pleasure of driving.

Any Yellow-Red Shell Service Station or Shell Dealer is ready to supply you with 400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline at the regular price—not one cent extra for the extra quality it contains or the extra service it will render.

Domestic Use of Electricity.

So great is the utilization of electricity in this country that Americans very naturally are inclined to assume that this country stands first in its use for all purposes. They are justified in that assumption by the facts, but it must not be assumed that here in America we stand relatively first in its use for all the purposes for which it is used. A report recently issued by the department of commerce in Washington shows that, while we lead in the use of electricity for transportation, industrial and commercial purposes and in public and semi-public buildings, this country stands sixth in its use for domestic purposes, Switzerland, Japan, Denmark, Canada and New Zealand preceding us in the order named—that is, sixth in the percentage of homes in which it is used to all the homes in the country.

We can readily understand why Switzerland should lead us in this regard; why 96.5 per cent. of the homes of Switzerland are electrified, whereas here in America, where electricity was first put to commercial use, but fifty-six per cent. are electrically equipped, but it is hard to understand why Japan, Denmark, Canada and New Zealand—particularly the last three—should precede us in this regard. Switzerland is small and compact—a land of high mountain ranges with valleys between. She is surrounded by mountains and has a network of them in and between her boundaries. On every side are mountain streams with swift currents. About every householder has either a mountain stream in his back yard, or a channel or piped line from one. Water-power is the cheapest thing imaginable in Switzerland, and the Swiss can either generate his own electricity or buy it cheaply from a generating plant. The situation in Japan is much the same. About the only explanation to be offered for the precedence over us by the other three lands is that their people generally have been more awake to the advantage of its use in the home than have the people generally over here.

We are learning, however. We may observe right here at home the immense stride recently made in the domestic use of electricity. Its adoption for use on the farm, for both power and lighting purposes, is growing by leaps and bounds and, at the present rate of gain it is making, another generation should see this country heading all lands, with the possible exception of Switzerland, in the use of electric energy for domestic purposes.

$73,000,000 Going Unclaimed.

Why so many people of this country permit their money to remain idle as they do is one of the mysteries which have never been solved. Is it the result of the remarkable prosperity which we have been enjoying for a number of years? Is it indifference to money? Is it carelessness? Is it forgetfulness? It may be any one of these. It may be all. No one seems able to tell.

Our attention was called to this by a form letter addressed by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon to the various banks of the country, asking them to aid the government in taking up the Second Liberty bonds. The secretary explains that the government no longer has the organization it had in selling the bonds to assist it in taking them up, and thus he asks the banks to aid the government in acquainting holders of Second Liberty loan bonds with the fact that the bonds have been called for payment on November 15 of the present year.

"As an indication of the importance of reaching holders of the called bonds," says the secretary, "it may be pointed out that about $14,500,000 temporary bonds have not yet been presented for exchange for permanent bonds, although the final coupon attached to the temporary bonds matured some seven years ago. The uncollected interest on these bonds now amounts to about $4,000,000. Moreover, some $3,600,000 Victory notes have not yet been presented for payment, although these notes ceased to bear interest in 1922 and 1923. The uncollected items of matured interest amount to about $43,000,000, and the uncollected items of matured principal amount to about $30,000,000."

This means that investors not only have permitted millions to be lost to them by letting money remain idle in the treasury, but that they also have neglected to collect from the government $73,000,000 due them in matured principal and interest on the obligations of the government issued during the World war.

This amount, immense as it is, probably represents but a small portion of the capital which remains idle in the country—capital in the form of money or securities in trust company, bank and building and loan association vaults, in private safes and hidden away in homes.

Nor is this all. It is probable that millions upon millions of dollars have been lost to those entitled to them as a result of court proceedings and court costs and probably as many millions more have been lost by the loss of money or destruction of money by fire.

Despite all that has been said of us regarding our "everlasting pursuit of the almighty dollar," we Americans beyond all question of doubt are the most indifferent people to money of any upon the face of the earth.

THE SHAMROCK.

When April rains make flowers bloom
And Johnny-jump-ups come to light
And clouds of color and perfume
Float from the orchards pink and white,
I see my shamrocks in the rain,
An emerald spray with raindrops set,
Like jewels on spring's coronet,
So fair, and yet it breathes of pain.

The shamrock on an older shore
Sprang from a rich and sacred soil
Where saint and hero lived of yore,
And where their sons in sorrow toil.
And here, transplanted, it to me
Seems weeping for the soil it left:
The diamonds that all others see
Are tears drawn from its heart bereft.

When April rains make flowers grow,
And sparkles on their tiny buds
That in June nights will overblow
And fill the world with scented floods,
The lonely shamrock in our land—
So finely among the clover leaves—
For the old springtime often grieves—
I feel its tears upon my hand.

Finest of Earthly Temples.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

On one of the walls in the library of congress is this inscription:

"There is but one temple in the universe and that is the body of man."

Of all God's wonderful works, His creation of man is greatest. In this human temple dwells the spirit of man, and at the same time, the spirit of God. It has been called, too, the temple of the Holy Ghost. In the Bible and out of it the body of man is referred to as the finest of all temples.

When once we realize the sanctity of the body, we will begin to take that care of it which all our instincts and teachings have taught us to give holy things. Then good health will abound as it does not at present.

It is a pathetic thing that a great many of our weaknesses and illnesses are due to actual faults of our own. Unnecessary exposure, overfatigue, overeating, eating or drinking improper things—these are a few causes for many disabilities.

These practices of ours are deliberate assaults upon the body. We defile the temple when we voluntarily do things we know will undermine the health.

Nobody boasts about stealing, or committing murder. On the contrary, every criminal is ready to move heaven and earth to escape detection.

In my opinion, the time will come when people will be ashamed to admit they are sick. They will hide their symptoms and do everything possible to get well in a hurry. The conversations about illness and "my operation" will be held no longer.

If we would but regard the body as a temple, a holy shrine, we would minister to it so carefully and continually, that there would be a constant glow of health shining from the sparkling eyes. That is the way it should be.

The abuse of the body is caused, not so much by direct act as by neglect. The failure to care for the teeth, to get rid of diseased tonsils, or a running ear, to get plenty of sleep, fresh air and exercise—these are the things which damage the temple of the body. They are like the rain and the weather, breaking through the rotting shingle or loose clapboard.

A properly cared for temple is looked after by its custodians. It is kept clean and in perfect order. Early attention is paid to needed repairs.

Each of us should feel his responsibility as custodian of the temple of the body. Every care should be used to preserve and improve it.

When we deal with the body in this spirit there will be longer life and greater happiness.

Editorial Comment.

THE CITY OF PERPETUAL LIGHT.

Harvey Wiley Corbett, distinguished New York architect, predicts the coming of a time when night will be unknown in the metropolis. Speaking on "The New Architecture" at an Art-in-Trade exposition, he described the city of the future as so well-lighted that the night would hardly be distinguishable from the day. Experiments, he said, already pointed to the generation of light from below in such luminous volume that streets and buildings will be as light during the hours of night as during the hours when the sun is shining.

Among the possibilities of the new order, as Mr. Corbett enumerated them, is the conduct of business affairs without cessation, the day being divided into four six-hour periods. Whether or not the schools could also be operated on the twenty-four-hour plan with the pupils attending in shifts suggests topic for the educators. The housewife will be interested in the prediction that food may be ordered by radio after being inspected by television, but again there is room for perplexity. How would the meals be served when father was working on the third shift, little Johnny going to school on the second, and Sister Sue on the first?

Other aspects of the new order present themselves to mind. It would give cause for rejoicing by those of the reformers who regard night clubs as sources of wickedness. How could there be night clubs in a city in which there could be no dreadful night? It might seem, too, that with the population divided into quarters to meet the demands of the six-hour working periods, the straphanger could be eliminated from urban life, tunnels and subways no longer suggesting that all who entered there should go prepared to die. And there would be new opportunity for the charitable who now take the children of the poor to the country to let them see the grass and learn where the milk at the corner grocery is supposed to come from. In the nightless city there would doubtless be organized effort to take the youngsters to the great open spaces that they might be immersed in darkness and acquainted with the glories of the stars.

It is recorded that Mr. Corbett's auditors showed signs of mirth as he pictured his city of perpetual light where there could be no Great White way because all ways would be as white at midnight as at noon. Probably Mr. Corbett does not intend to be taken too literally. Nevertheless not without force in his assertion that this glance into the future produces picture no more fantastic than would have seemed a picture of present conditions if drawn fifty years ago.—Boston Transcript.

MOON'S DEFIANCE OF NEWTON'S LAW.

An English "scientific correspondent" writing to a London newspaper speaks of the moon's disobeying Newton's law of gravitation. The inference one draws from the letter is that the moon is at fault. There are always "unexplicable discrepancies" between her calculated position and that which she actually occupies when she ventures to put the sun in eclipse. The writer is chivalrous enough to concede that there is some "unknown force" which is preventing the moon from scrupulously complying with Greenwich mathematical computations, but still he accuses her of "erratic movement."

It is admitted that the "error" is very, very slight, certainly not a felony and hardly a misdemeanor—barely a mile out of the way, which seems to a layman infinitesimal when he takes into account the distance through which she travels in her attendance upon the earth. To a mathematician, however, any error is serious or may become so in its consequences. It appears from this expert testimony that "Professor Brown, an American mathematician," has come nearest to success in his correctional effort; but even he with his lunar table fails wholly "to correct the moon's error."

No one takes Shakespeare as using other than a poetic figure of speech when he calls the moon "an arrant thief" because her "pale fire she snatches from the sun;" but this charge of errancy comes from scientists, and it must be taken seriously. She should employ Einstein as counsel in this suit which the Newtonian mathematicians have brought. —New York Times.

THE THING THEY FEAR.

A man and a woman in New York, accused of the murder of the husband of the latter, and by their own confessions both implicated in the crime, have been attracting the attention of the country with their desperate efforts to avoid the electric chair, just that and nothing more. They had neither expectation nor hope of freedom. The big boon they were trying to obtain was a sentence of imprisonment for life. And in order to gain it, each one was willing to send the other to execution. In the beginning the woman counted on her sex to save her from death in case she should be caught.

If any readers doubt whether murderers fear the death penalty beyond everything else, and whether effective and rigid enforcement of a capital punishment law will tend to reduce homicide, we suggest that they consider the Snyder-Gray case.—Detroit Free Press.

It is said that when Mussolini appears in public plain clothes men are parked ten feet apart along the way he travels. Probably, too, regardless of the location of fireplugs.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Bound To Give Service a Black Eye.

Anybody who sits down and writes President Coolidge about his views on a third term will be, after a week or two, blaming Mr. New for the poor mail service.—Fort Wayne News-Sentinel.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

If you don't believe the same general environment can produce different kinds of people, note this interesting coincidence. William Jennings Bryan and John Thomas Scopes, who started the Tennessee evolution case, were both born in the village of Salem, Illinois. The writer of this column arose early many years ago and rode a bicycle twenty-five miles before 8 o'clock to hear the Great Commoner make one of his early speeches in this same village.

Russian writers pay $16 annually for the privilege of writing. A great many Americans who persist in the practice of writing ought to be made to pay a much larger tax. Before you buy a book it is a good idea to find out all you can about it. If you don't, you may be wasting your time and encouraging a man who ought not be encouraged.

We are told that goats are sometimes driven over the plowed fields of the Nile valley to break the clods. You find that part of life is made up of rough roads and you may feel like the goat that is driven over the plowed field to make it smooth. The fortunate fact is that the road, gone over often and patiently, does become smooth. The day comes when the clods are broken up and become fine soil.

It is said that Thomas Huxley, the great scientist, used to take his children to the zoo on Sunday mornings so that they could become more familiar with the chimpanzees and the monkeys. He probably believed that to be a real lesson in democracy.

The Japanese try to be a progressive people. They pick up, adopt and adapt western customs—particularly American customs. The "hot dog" of the roadside stand seems to have made an appeal to the Japs. "Hot dogs" meet with favor in Nippon. The question is: What is progress? Do the Japs know what to pick up from us and what to leave alone? For instance roller skates, jazz and bootlegging are typically American. They do not represent progress. Other nations will do well to ignore some things that are undeniably American.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

DR. CHARLES K. EDMUNDS.

Charles Keyser Edmunds was born in Baltimore, September 21, 1876. For seventeen years, from 1907 to 1924, he served as president of the Canton, China, Christian college, becoming the American director for the institution in 1926. In 1924 he was made provost of Johns Hopkins university, resigning from that office in the fall of 1926 to take up the work of reorganizing the Chinese university. He is the author of papers on "Modern Education in China," "The motive Power of Heat," and reviews and researches on magnetism.

The former president of Canton Christian college upholds the Chinese in their present cause, saying:

"All the foreigners, both missionaries and business men, and all their properties are not a circumstance compared with the interests of the Chinese involved in the present civil war, yet foreigners consider the great internal struggle in China merely in the light of an interruption to their business. What nation regulates its affairs primarily upon the basis of foreign interests?

"We talk about the "looting" done in some of our foreign settlements by the Chinese. It amounts to just nothing at all when compared with the looting done by our own troops and those of the other western powers when they invaded Peking at the time of the Boxer trouble and carried off the treasures of centuries.

"Russia is doing no more than the rest of us have been doing. There are American, British and French labor agitators as well as Russians in China who are active in fomenting strikes, which are partly political and partly economic.

"Britain has transferred her quarrel with Russia to Chinese soil. She has had "advisers" with the Chinese government for years, and these having been displaced largely by Russians, she now finds that such advisers are objectionable."

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, May 13 — Thoughts while strolling: The pretzel women of Union square. And the recruiting officers. Old men who haunt outdoor book-stalls. Seedy sandwich men scanning the gutters—and now and then salvaging a snipe.

Cut rate florists whose prices drop hourly until dusk—then go up. O'Hara, a pawnbroker. A wax candle store on the biggest electrified street in the world. Sign: "We dye fancy ladies' shoes." The idea! The stream of taxis for a liner just docked.

Those lecture land sales. With mysterious window maps and suggestions of quick fortune. And desks cluttered with "dead" telephones. Also a semi-circle of suckers. The man with the little red flag at Herald square. Cafes with window menu cards.

Those apartments that seem to sulk just off Fifth avenue. Dull windows and a museum-like coldness. And male tenants who wear gray silk gloves. The filagree mist from hot asphalt. And shimmers of heat from window glass.

Old women gasping in airless basements. Wilted traffic cops. Deserted leather-and-oak clubs. Low-slung roadsters hitting it up for the beaches. Parting poodles. Charles Hanson Towne, the poet. A child escapes a taxi by a sickening margin.

The smug ease of actors — who haven't worked all season. And Turkish bath runners coming out for air. Waddling like stuffed Straabourg geese. Types that seep in and out of hotel doors. Red heels. Porcine noses. Giggles. And a blind man on the opposite curb playing a flute.

Pale youths with malacca canes, who fear they are capering to the dogs. The homegoing crowds calloused with fatigue and dreaming of gardens. Hatless mothers who look squeezed and hounded, drifting to the parks. And tomorrow is another day.

* * *

A chop house on Forty-Ninth street facetiously accents its steak with garlic. Outside is a street vendor who hawks breath perfume pellets.

* * *

New York's cold storage heart was revealed again the other day. A Central park squirrel, in a distracted hunt for non-existing nuts, ventured out on the roadway. In leaping before a motor car to reach the other side, it was sideswiped by the machine and crawled stricken to a grassy spot, where it looked up with frightened, questioning eyes upon the gathering crowds. More than fifty calls were received by the park department in a short space, asking help be sent. Finally the squirrel was placed in a plush limousine and taken to an animal hospital.

* * *

And there are many men with chunks of bread in their pocket, who go to hard boiled Times square at dusk in hope of feeding the few timid pigeons and sparrows that flutter to the ground there.

* * *

On the other hand I know a man who had a sudden attack of vertigo in the crowded anteroom of a night club. Fearful of falling and perhaps being trundled to a hospital, he addressed a stranger: "I've been taken suddenly ill, would you kindly assist me to the alley for air?"

"I don't know what you're selling," was the withering response, "but whatever it is, I have plenty."

* * *

The suggestion of leaving a night club to visit an alley with a stranger sounds rather terrifying at that.

* * *

The night club racket, by the way, has a new twist. Two are run by ocean liner stewards. That gives the suggestion of excellent liquor, fresh from ships. But the liquor comes from East Side bath tubs like all the rest.—Copyright, 1927.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Monday.

John Smith, slayer of James Cockrell, testified at Lexington, Kentucky, that he had been promised a pardon by Judge James Hargis and Ed Callahan. This was one of the celebrated homicides of the country.

Mrs. Martha Hood began a $5,000 damage suit against the directors of the Central Ohio Lime and Stone company, alleging that they had defrauded her in that they had not paid her that amount, which she claimed as her share of the profits of the sale of the company's property to the Ohio and Western Lime company.

Miss Zora May Powell and Mr. Victor Mitchell were married by Justice C. H. Conley.

Mrs. Jane McElvy King, who was the first white child born in Salt Rock township, died at the home of her son, George King, east of Scott Town, at the age of eighty-three.

Mayor Louis Scherff issued a statement to the effect that Rev. D. H. Bailey should file affidavits if charges made by him in his Sunday morning sermon at Epworth church were true. Rev. Mr. Bailey said Sunday ball was showing its effect; that the preceding Sunday nine saloons were open, several gambling joints in operation and that there was one case of house-breaking.

Word was received that Howard J. Jury, formerly of Marion, had assumed charge of the Five C Mining company, which was doing a big business.

Marion went into second place in the O-I league race when the local team defeated Akron eight to three. Burk pitched for Marion.

The police were searching for Clara Beard, aged fourteen, missing from her home with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Copeland, of north Main street.

H. L. Frank was reelected superintendent of the local schools for another year.

Mrs. U. K. Guthery, was surprised by a large company of friends who assembled at her home on Pearl street to bid her farewell before she started to make her home in Wyoming.

Dinner Stories.

A little boy was saying his go-to-bed prayer in a very low voice.

"I can't hear you, dear," his mother whispered.

"Wasn't talking to you," said the small boy firmly.

* * *

"My husband examined many diamonds before buying this one for me, and he says it's the flower of them all."

"You mean flaw."

"Why?"

"It's paste."

* * *

They were going through the Art institute. Presently they came to a halt before a piece of sculpture.

"That," he said, "is a statue of Francesca da Rimini, executed by Rodin."

"The wretch! Was he hung for it?"

* * *

"Yeah, it does. You know that statue of Lincoln standing up in the park, with his hand on a little negro's head? Well, last winter it got so cold that he stuck his hand in his pocket to warm it."

The school pamphlet shows that 90,000 persons were killed and more than two and a half million injured in this country last year in accidents of all kinds. One-fourth of the victims were children under 15 years of age.

This represents a casualty toll of 246 deaths and 7,000 injuries for each day of the year—20 times the total casualty record among American soldiers during the World War, subject matter of the school talks discloses.

Record Last Year

Crossing accidents last year caused 2,492 deaths and 6,991 injuries. The public can help reduce this toll, the railway company states, first, by approaching crossing with automobile under control, prepared to stop; second, by looking in both directions and by listening to know whether or not a train is approaching; third, by not attempting to pass over the track until they know the way is clear.

Safety instructions are also listed to eliminate the many accidents which bring death and injuries to railway passengers and to persons who trespass on railway property. Between 3,000 and 4,000 trespassers are killed annually, it is stated.

Cites Carelessness

"Accidents of all kinds are due largely to carelessness, thoughtlessness, indifference and chance-taking," the folder states, adding, "The New York Central will greatly appreciate any cooperation that may be extended by the schools through the teachers and the pupils in out joint efforts to save life and limb."

Recently the board of commissioners of Marion County granted the New York Central permission to erect safety signs at crossings in the county, warning motorists to drive over the tracks in second gear. Installation of these signs is a part of the general safety campaign.

Repair Crossing

Pennsylvania workmen yesterday repaired the W. Center-st crossing and improved the track in that vicinity. They will probably be employed in the local yards for the remainder of the week.

Extra Coach

Train No. 4 on the Erie last night carried an extra coach occupied by delegates returning from the Rebekah convention at Cincinnati. The majority of the delegates occupying the extra coach were enroute to Akron.

Checks Records

R. L. Kittredge, cost engineer of the Hocking Valley Railroad, with headquarters in Columbus, was in Marion yesterday, checking over local records. J. W. Chapman is assistant cost engineer in this city.

Rail Briefs

O. L. Enos, division passenger agent of the Kent Division, Erie Railroad, was in Marion yesterday.

C. P. Morris, general freight agent of the Erie Railroad with offices in Cincinnati, was a visitor in local railroad offices yesterday.

W. White, superintendent of the Mahoning Division, Erie Railroad, with offices at Youngstown, was a visitor here Wednesday.

JUDGE MARTIN ORDERS DRUG ADDICT FROM CITY

Paul Rager, 33, who gives his home as Blacklick, Pa., and in whose possession police found hypodermic needles and tablets thought to have contained morphine, when arrested several days ago on a charge of intoxication, was again in the hands of the police yesterday. He was arrested near the Redmen's hall charged with being under the influence of drugs. At police headquarters he complained of being sick and a physician was called. He recovered sufficiently by night to be ordered out of the city by Judge Martin.

CHAPTER XLVIII

AN to realize for the first ... Jim Elwell continued, "that ... acted the part of a selfish, ... ss cad in marrying you the ... l, Betty, and asking you to ... ret. It wasn't fair to you, ... ou hadn't come into a fortune, ... of you girls had ever gone ... with any fellows—except Dick ... and me—and I had no right ... p the way I did. Dick did ... rgivable thing. Dick naturally ...

The whole of the matter was that ... he and Prof the whole truth ... all except which girl it was ... ried. That they didn't know until just a few minutes ago when Betty told them.

"We talked the thing over and decided it was only right and fair to give you your chance, Betty—you know, a chance to get free. Knowing you pretty well, we felt reasonably sure that you wouldn't take the chance if it was offered to you in the ordinary way—that is, to give you a divorce."

He paused a moment while he patted Betty's arm. "So we decided to let you go on believing me bughouse for a while—six months at least. You were to have your fling—to go to Europe and mix with other men and if you found one—the right one—then I would have made it easy for you to get your freedoom. And that's why Mollie wrote you to tell you to go ahead with your European trip and forget about me. But—"

"But—I fooled you, didn't I, Mister Fixit? Now you've got to go to Europe with your little wifie and if she catches you flirting with any pretty nurses—war nurses, I mean—well, it won't be very healthy for you."

Jim leaned back and smiled contentedly, blissfully unaware of the fact that during a certain period of his "living death" his actions had really given his mother cause for great anxiety and would have worried his wife considerably if she had known more about them.

"Just the same, Jim," Martha Dalton spoke reprovingly, "I think it was a mean trick to play on the girls. If you had seen these girls tonight when they were waiting for you to get home—honestly, I thought they would be nervous wrecks, both of them.

"And then, too," she added, "keeping this good news away from them for all these weeks, when they just as well could have known and been happy instead of heartbroken. Jim, I think you've been cruel."

Martha Dalton spoke as if she was mad. Jim "took it" smilingly. When she had finished he said, "Can't help it, old dear, but that's just the way I felt about it. I had no business tying Betty up with a marriage and then going away to war and expecting her to shut her eyes every time she saw another man. And now once she's become an heiress she must have to use a guard to keep the men away."

"All I need," remarked Betty humorously, "is Rusty's slipper. Eh, Margaret?"

"I didn't get that," said Jim, "but I'll find out later. I hope you girls forgive me for playing this little trick. Do you?"

They did.

"Well, just it's once, Jim. But please don't ever—honestly, you almost broke my poor old heart."

"That wasn't the only stubborn thing he did," remarked Mollie Elwell. "Imagine going away to war and asking me not to try to find out which of the girls he was in love with. He was afraid, mind you, that if I knew which one it was I would favor her at the expense of the other in case he died overseas. Now, can you imagine any boy of mine being as misguided as all that?"

"And can you imagine him being as misguided as to think that I would desert him!" demanded Betty.

"Let the boy alone," said Prof. "I won't have you women picking on him like that. There are a few things about us men they'll never understand eh, Jim?"

That was true, Jim smiled.

"You mustn't blame Mollie," he said to Martha, "for what she said in her letter. If you'll remember, what she said was this: that there wasn't one chance in a thousand that I'd ever be any better mentally. Well, the chances are I won't. So there weren't any lies in the letters. I thought I could play possum until the twins had gone to Europe and then if Betty hadn't found a man by the time she came back I could try all over again with her myself."

And so, said Jim, there they were. Nothing more to tell, and mighty sorry if he had upset them. "But all's well that ends well, you know, and besides, it wasn't as if we'd gone out out of our way to make you suffer. You never really expected to see me come home well again."

WOMEN CAN NOW DO MORE

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Keeps Them Well

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing. Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in great factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it.

Your "Regular" Pain Now Needless

Menstruation is a perfectly natural process, but the painful part is NEEDLESS. Long study has absolutely conquered menstrual pain. Science now offers women reliable and complete relief—in a simple, utterly harmless tablet called midol.

This newest achievement of the laboratory has nothing to do with drastic, habit-forming drugs that kill pain by benumbing the whole system! Midol acts directly on the organs affected by menstruation, and nowhere else. Yet relief and absolute comfort come in five to seven minutes!

So, why have a twinge of pain—feel "low" or even uncomfortable! Or take anything to depress the heart or upset the system? All drug stores have midol in a thin aluminum box that tucks in purse or pocket—for 50 cents.

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Agrees

THERE is no embarrassment quite so acute as that with which one powerless to help, awaits the answer of some friend to a question, unexpected as well as distressing and humiliating. Dicky, Mary and I all knew what dismayed confusion must be young Noel Veritzen's at the proposition put before him so abruptly by Eleanor Lincoln, our bewildering new neighbor, but we were all helpless to aid him, and could only wait tensely for his reply. When it came it was in so low a tone that none but keen ears could hear it.

"Unfortunately," the boy said, "I should be only a hindrance to your introduction. I have not seen my father except at a distance, in years. We—we—are—estranged."

Miss Lincoln made instant amends. "Oh!" she choked, "please forgive me. I had no idea. I was so thoughtless. How shall I atone?"

She was altogether too flamboyant, I said to myself critically, as her eyes swept all our faces and came to rest on Dicky's as if she found an answer to her query there. He smiled at her with the rare tact and friendly reassurance which I so often have seen him use in difficult situations. But the words with which he clothed his first aid to her confusion, brought me bolt upright in my chair in bewilderment which rapidly changed to indignation.

"Do not be so distressed," Dicky said gently. "Your mistake was a very natural one, and I know Mr. Veritzen already has pardoned you. But there is another avenue of access to his father, which I am sure will be open to you. Mrs. Graham," he inclined his head toward me, "is the head of Philip Veritzen's historical research department, and I know that he values her judgment highly. I am sure that she will be glad to introduce you to the great man."

I knew that though not perceptible to anyone else but me, there was a distinct sneer in the last two words. But I was so occupied in searching for the possible motive behind Dicky's astonishing little speech, that I had no time for resentment.

Had my husband made the proposition out of a hasty generous impulse to shield Noel's confusion, had he voiced it with the deliberate intention of annoying me, or—I faced a more unpleasant possibility, had he dangled the idea before her with the idea that she would remember his intervention later, and perhaps look kindly upon a proposal to permit him to sketch her?

Miss Lincoln gave me no time for mental weight-balancing, however. She turned to me with an enthusiasm which for the moment swept everything else, even Noel Veritzen, off the horizon. I realized that the girl's theatrical ambition was a genuine one, real enough to blot out for the moment the attraction which she undeniably felt for the personable young man.

"Oh, Mrs. Graham!" she said, and now with a kaleidoscopic change she was all pretty, childlike humility, not a trace of arrogance about her. "Could you, would you?—" her voice trailed off as if she were frightened, and she looked at me appealingly.

"I am afraid Mr. Graham overestimates my ability to secure a hearing for anyone with Mr. Veritzen," I began slowly, trying to make my voice judicial, and to keep my indignation at Dicky out of it. Then with a sudden malicious impulse, I saw my way clear to "get even" in childish fashion, and added sweetly:

"But you may be assured that I shall do everything in my power for you. I am to have a conference with Mr. Veritzen tomorrow, and I shall remind him of a determination he expressed last winter, to come down to this section when summer came and spend a few days. He can get suitable accommodations, for even his fastidious taste, at the Beechview Hotel, and then I will arrange an apparently accidental meeting with him for you—see that you are both at the farmhouse for tea at the same time, or something like that. Then you can make your own appeal to him.

DEFENDANT TO TAKE STAND IN CANTON TRIAL

Neighbors Testify and Deposition Read in Lloyd Streitenberger's Behalf

Canton, May 13—Floyd Streitenberger, former Canton city detective, on trial for his life for alleged complicity in the assassination of Don R. Mellett, Canton Daily News publisher, July 16, last, was to take the stand in his own defense here this afternoon. The defense has decided not to call former Chief of Police S. A. Lengel to the stand for the present, it was announced. Lengel was ousted shortly after the Mellett murder.

During the morning session of court today a deposition of Police Captain Ben Clarke, ill at his home here, was read from the witness stand. Clarke declared in the deposition that he was on duty at the south gate of the fair grounds where war veterans were presenting a sham battle on the night of July 15, a few hours preceding the fatal shooting. He said he saw Streitenberger and his wife in an auto and talked to them for a few minutes, but said he did not see Streitenberger leave.

The deposition stated that Clarke went home after the fair ground celebration ended, and slept until he was called out of bed about 1:30 a. m. (July 16) by Chief of Police Lengel and asked to round up all detectives. Clarke went to Streitenberger's home, according to the deposition, and Mrs. Streitenberger answered the door, telling him that "Floyd was asleep." Clarke left his order, and Streitenberger reported at headquarters shortly after 2 a. m., the deposition said.

Examination of Streitenberger was expected to be exhaustive, but it was believed the defense would rest its case late today.

"EASY TO WORK," SAY COEDS

Three of the senior co-eds who work.

ANN ARBOR Mich., May 13—"Earning your own way through college isn't easy, but it's lots of fun," says Harriet Bruce, University of Michigan co-ed who will be a graduate of this June.

Miss Bruce is one of 500 girls at the University of Michigan working their way through school wholly or in part. The total feminine enrollment is 2,100.

Stenography and waiting on table—that tells the story, according to Miss Bruce.

Lucky Girl

"I've been much luckier than lots of girls who are doing the same thing," she continues, "because I haven't had to take any of the hard, small-pay jobs.

"As for my scholarship—well, you can't be a Phi Beta Kappa and work for your living, too. But grades aren't all of college."

What becomes of these girls after commencement? Miss Bruce's reply is typical.

"In June, I'm going to New York break right into a great big city where I don't know a soul and try to find a job. That will be more fun!"

What this girl has done others can do—and have done, agree Miss Agatha McCracken and Miss Evelyne Johnson, who will also complete their self-earned college careers at the University of Michigan this June.

They declare that the average girl at college spends between $900 and $1,000 a year, but that much of this is needless. They maintain that it is possible for a girl attending a state university to live on $700 a school year.

"By working for her board, a student can save almost one-third of her total expenses," Miss Bruce further volunteers.

"The girl who has stenographic training besides can actually be self supporting."

Here's Budget

FOUR DIVORCE ACTIONS ARE BEING HEARD

32 Witnesses Summoned in One Case; Courtroom Partly Filled

This was "divorce day" in the Marion County Court of Common Pleas, four divorce suits having been assigned for hearing during the day's session.

The courtroom was partly filled with persons who were on hand either as witnesses and litigants or interested spectators, the crowd numbering about 100 when the time for calling the first case arrived.

The first of the four hearings was in the suit of Harry D. Diller against Myrtle B. Diller. It was expected to be the longest proceeding of the day, 32 witnesses having been summoned.

Considering Case

Hearing of the suit of the state of Ohio on relation of L. L. Aller against W. C. Wooley and others, county commissioners, took up the entire session of Common Pleas Court yesterday.

After conclusion of the proceedings, Judge Scofield took the case under advisement.

The suit resulted from a dispute over a bill for stone used by Aller in construction of the road improvement between Newman's and Prospect, about two years ago. The stone was purchased from John D. Owens & Son and Aller asserts that he was overcharged as the result of weight of trucks used in the deliveries being underestimated. The Owens firm brought suit which stopped payment of $1,500 to Aller and this money has been tied up since the beginning of the action.

VISITORS PRAISE FARM BUREAU SERVICE PLANT

Say Local Organization Equipped with One of Best in State

The Marion County Farm Bureau is equipped with one of the best farm service plants in the state, according to a group of men prominent in Ohio agricultural activities who were here yesterday on a tour of inspection. The party is visiting headquarters of county farm bureaus in various parts of the state.

The visitors were Murray B. Lincoln, Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation; D. M. Oldaker, Bucyrus, O. J. Bailey, Tacoma, G. H. Evans, Columbus and George Cooley, Dover Center, members of the state federation's executive committee; E. S. Anastatt, Columbus, general agent of the federation's mutual automobile insurance department; T. D. Foster, Columbus, representative of the O. S. U. Economics department; W. R. Maney, Columbus, agent of the Ohio Farm Bureau Service Co.

The Marion County Farm Bureau is now located in what was formerly the Boxer elevator on Park-blvd., having purchased the property recently.

Bernard B. Hatten, field service director of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation in seven central Ohio counties, including Marion County, was transacting business at local bureau headquarters today.

SEVEN HELD IN FARM THEFTS TO BE ARRAIGNED

Hearing Scheduled This Afternoon in Municipal Court; Affidavits Filed

Seven men against whom charges have been filed in connection with farm robberies staged in Marion County and vicinity during the last year were scheduled for arraignment in Municipal Court this afternoon.

They are Paul and Lester Bird, brothers; James Henry and John Kurtz, against whom charges of grand larceny have been filed, and Edward "Soapy" Shafer, Clyde Rogers and W. S. "Shorty" Longfellow, accused of receiving and concealing stolen property.

Affidavits against the seven were filed yesterday by Sheriff James A. Deal, who conducted the two-months' probe which resulted in the arrests last week.

Another Held

The list of arrests was increased to eight, yesterday afternoon, when Orville Gibson, 26, was taken into custody at Marysville by Sheriff Richard Hager of Union County. Gibson, a former Marion resident, is held for investigation. His home is in Marysville.

Gibson was brought to Marion this morning by Deputy Sheriff Vane Ireland and is now in the city prison.

Confessions have been obtained from all of the men to be arraigned today with the exception of Longfellow, Prosecuting Attorney Wiedemann has announced. The admissions of guilt were obtained after the men were put through hours of questioning by Wiedemann, Deal and other officials.

Land of Green Ginger is the name of a street in the English city of Hull.

Bob? Yes! Smoke? No!

That's the Rule in China, According to U. of M. Girl, Who Says Character of Chinese Women Must Be Above Reproach

Above, Miss Fuh-ru Bei; below, the Misses Alice Wang, Kyueh Tsang and Yat Tong, devotees of the bob, but not of smoking.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 12—Oriental women may bob their hair in imitation of the western fashion but when the American co-ed added the art of smoking to her liberal education it was tabooed by Chinese students, according to Miss Fuh-ru Bei of the graduate school at the University of Michigan.

"The character of a Chinese woman must be above reproach," she says. "To the educated classes smoking is immoral. It is not considered a girlish habit."

Yet mannish types are not entirely censured in China. Miss Bei states that seven tenths of the women attending the Canton Medical College had bravely visited the barber and were advocates of the boyish bob.

No Bob for Her

"But myself, I am too conservative," she adds laughing shyly. "I tell my friends that I will be the last one in the world to bob."

Prior to 1914 only the old, picturesque water pipe was used in Foochow. In that year singing girls and women of the streets in Shanghai began to smoke cigarets. By 1922 wealthy, idle women of the uneducated caste adopted the habit.

"But no Chinese girls and very few men of the student class smoke," Miss Bei declares. "As the traditional leaders of their country, they must set the moral standards. They do not believe that tobacco satisfies or produces nightingale voices."

LONGWORTH AGAINST PROPOSED ABANDONMENT

Speaker of House Seeks Continuance of Cincinnati Interal Revenue Office

Washington, May 13—Protest against the proposed abandonment of the internal revenue office at Cincinnati was lodged with the treasury department today by Speaker Nicholas Longworth, who represents the Cincinnati district in congress.

Longworth recommended to Commissioner D. H. Blair that the Cincinnati office be retained, and the Columbus office be discontinued if it is found necessary to reduce the number of Ohio offices. He pointed out that the Cincinnati office handles more business than the Columbus office, and its abandonment would cause great inconvenience to southwestern Ohio.

DOROTHY MACKAYE'S LOVE SECRETS BARED IN COURT

Screen Tragedienne Volunteers To Tell All at Trial of Paul Kelly

Los Angeles, May 13—Love secrets of an actress lay bared today as Dorothy Mackaye, stage tragedienne prepared to return to the witness stand at the murder trial of Paul Kelly to tell more of her intimate associations with the young screen hero.

At the risk of self-incrimination, she has volunteered to tell all she knows of the events which led to the tragic death of her husband, Ray Raymond, musical comedy actor. Raymond, the state charges died from fist blows dealt by the strapping Kelly.

While the impetuous film lover makes open declaration of his devotion to Miss Mackaye, the prosecution will seek to establish a love motive for the alleged murder by documentary evidence.

Ethel Lee, negro maid in the Raymond household, who previously testified Miss Mackaye spent "many nights" away from home, was recalled to identify a photograph of Raymond in a "strong man" pose.

"Mr. Raymond wasn't in that good condition," she explained as she studied the pictured muscles, "he wasn't as heavy as that."

In her eye-witness account of the fatal fist fight the servant girl had described Kelly as the physical superior of his opponent.

HALF-MILION MISSING FROM NEVADA TREASURY

Five-Day Moratorium Declared on Completion of State Ledger Audit

Reno, Nev., May 13—With half a million dollars missing from the state treasury, Nevada today began a five-day moratorium, during which all financial activity of the state government will be halted.

Governor Balzar declared the moratorium upon completion of an audit of the books of State Treasurer Ed. Malley. Malley, with former State Controller George Cole and E. W. Clapp, former cashier of the Carson Valley Bank, is accused of embezzling $516,000.

The state treasurer, however, contends the huge shortage is in the books of the Carson Valley Bank, and not in the state ledgers. By an adroit maneuver, Malley placed the state and the bank on the defensive. He appeared at the bank, presenting cashier's checks totalling well over half a million dollars and demanding payment.

Malley thereby is said to have placed upon the bank the burden of proving the checks fraudulent. Furthermore, it was said, the bank now will be forced to take legal action independent of the state prosecution.

CHURCH LOBBYING IN DISFAVOR WITH BISHOP

Legislators Heartily Endorse Admonition to Protestant Episcopalians

Washington, May 13—"Thou shalt not lobby."

This admonition by Bishop James E. Freeman, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, may become an unwritten commandment if it meets with as much favor among church people as it did on capitol hill.

The bishop's advice to church organizations to halt their congressional lobbying activities was warmly received today by the corporal's guard of legislators left in Washington. The elimination of church lobbies, they said, would be a step toward the elimnaton of all lobbies—a condition representing the millenium to congress.

The activity of church lobbies, which have sought to influence congressional legislation time and again on moral issues, comes near to violating the letter if not the spirit of the constitution, according to Senator Thomas F. Bayard, Democrat of Delaware, whose ancestors helped to write that historic document. Bayard declared the constitutional provision, separating the church and state, alone should be sufficient to discourage church lobbies.

Bishop Freeman apparently took the same view in advising the annual Episcopal diocesan convention against lobby activities.

"BILLY" MAJORS, DEAN OF HARNESS-MEN, DIES

Well Known Mansfield Race-Driver Victim of Influenza

Mansfield, May 13—Death ended the career of "Billy" Majors, 67, veteran of half a century of campaigning on the harness race tracks of Ohio and the middle west, at his home here today.

Majors, who was the best known trainer and driver of harness racing horses in the state, succumbed to a prolonged illness, the result of a complication of diseases which began with an attack of influenza more than a year ago.

He had trained and driven more than 125 horses in his lifetime, starting with his first race at the old Hiawatha track at Mt. Vernon, 48 years ago, when he piloted a horse named "Baltic" to victory in his initial start. Majors has driven for former Congressman Winfield S. Kerr, Myers S. Cooper and Dr. Lease of Columbus, among other prominent Ohio sportsmen.

He is survived by his widow, one son, Joseph Majors, and one daughter, Mrs. Homer King, both of Mansfield. He will be buried Sunday in Bellesille, with funeral services being held in Mansfield.

NEW ARCHITECTURAL ERA FUTURE'S PROMISE, CLAIM

Holland, Belgium, France, Italy Catching America's Step, Nimmons Says

Washington, May 13—America is at the threshold of a new era in architecture, George C. Nimmons, of Chicago, chairman of the committee on education of the American Institute of Architects, declared today in presenting a report to the sixtieth convention of the institute.

"Already we have made quite a start," he said. "In Europe the same thing prevails, except possibly in London, which is going along in the same old traditional lines. But in Holland, Belgium, France and Italy new buildings show evidence of the transition. In this country the majority of architects when given problems of design of important buildings will now depart more than ever from conventional architecture."

Nimmons said the first factor affecting the design of buildings materially is the zoning law as applied in New York City.

"There you can go up only 200 feet or less, according to the width of the street," he said. "Then you must create setbacks. The creating of these setbacks has gradually brought about in New York the erection of some of the most interesting shapes and skylines that American architecture has ever produced."

CROSSING SUIT

terurban company wants the crossing to run directly east from Newmann's bridge and turn north at a right angle east of the tracks.

Engineer Here

Harry J. Kirk of Columbus, state highway engineer who was here in connection with the case, declares that the crossing plan favored by his department and county officials is unquestionably the safest.

The road right-of-way is 40 feet in width and this will provide ample space for carrying out the plan Kirk stated.

One of the claims made in the injunction suit by the C., D. & M. was that the company had entered into an agreement with the county commissioners for a crossing similar to the one favored by the C., D. & M. The judge held that any agreement or contract of this kind is invalid, the state highway department having sole authority to decide how the crossing should be constructed.

The case was scheduled for hearing yesterday but was delayed by another suit which occupied the court's time throughout the day.

No testimony was heard this morning. While the first witness was on the stand, Grant E. Mouser, Jr., special counsel from the attorney general's office and Prosecuting Attorney Frank Wiedemann, representing the county, filed a demurrer to the petition.

After overruling the demurrer, Judge Scofield on his own motion dissolved the temporary injunction, outlining his reasons in an informal statement.

FIRST CARLOAD OF WOOL SHIPPED FROM MARION

The co-operative plan for marketing wool is increasing in popularity with Marion County farmers and it is expected that consignments from this county during 1927 will show a 50 per cent increase over last year.

This information came today from Roland Leeper, manager of the Marion County Farm Bureau, who announced that the season's first carload of wool was shipped from here today. It went to the Ohio Wool-growers' Co-operative Association headquarters in Columbus.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT
SNYDER-GRAY

gar F. Hazleton, her attorney, who stood nearby.

"The defendant Snyder has already said why sentence should not be passed upon her and has nothing further to say at this time," said Hazleton.

Gray Is Sentenced

Judge Scudder then intoned the formula which sentenced Mrs. Snyder to solitary confinement until she is "done to death at Sing Sing prison the week beginning June 20 next."

Mrs. Snyder looked directly at Judge Scudder as he pronounced the sentence. There was a gleam of the old defiance in her green-blue eyes and her lips were tightly compressed.

Gray then was sentenced. He walked before the bar of justice, head up, shoulders squared. He, too, accepted the verdict calmly, although a flush mantled his dark face.

The convicted couple, however, will not be taken to the death house at Sing Sing immediately, as planned. Justice Scudder granted the request of their counsel that they be permitted to remain in Queens County Jail until Monday to wind up their affairs and say their farewells to relatives.

Courtroom Jammed

Mrs. Snyder's and Gray's last public appearance was before another crowded courtroom, fully 500 persons jamming every available bit of space to see the final act in this great drama. All the spectators remained on their feet while the sentence was given. The judge was extremely grave in his demeanor.

Justice Scudder took the bench shortly after 10 o'clock. A moment later Mrs. Snyder, flanked by two matrons, walked rapidly into the courtroom. Gray, also guarded, followed almost immediately.

They stood about four feet apart in front of the judge's bench as they received sentence. They did not glance at each other.

Before Justice Scudder imposed sentence, Attorney Hazleton made a number of motions, including one asking that the verdict be set aside, but all of them were denied. Similar motions were made in behalf of Gray by his attorney, William J. Millard, but they, too, were denied.

Jurors in Box

Justice Scudder first set the date of the execution for March 20 (the date of the murder) but corrected himself.

None of the relatives of the condemned pair were in the courtroom. Mrs. Snyder's mother remained in the Snyder home at Queens Village, where Snyder was beaten to death with an iron sash-weight on the morning of March 20 as he slept. Gray's mother, who had attended the trial, also remained at home, but she plans to visit her son in the prison tomorrow.

The jurors who convicted the couple were in their seats in the jury box as sentence was pronounced, although Hazleton had requested that they be excluded during the proceedings.

When Gray was asked if he had anything to say, Millard spoke for him at once, saying "No."

The spectators, sensing the solemnity of the occasion, maintained absolute silence as sentence was intoned.

The proceedings were over quickly. As the judge finished his fateful words there was a moment of hesitation. Then Attorney Millard turned to Gray and whispered:

"Keep up your hope."

The dapper little corset salesman smiled wanly.

Mrs. Snyder Content

The prisoners then were led from the courtroom and back to their cells in the jail. They swept out without a glance at the spectators gaping at them.

Attendants said Mrs. Snyder laughed and joked with the matrons as she waited to be called into the courtroom to be sentenced and that Attorney Hazleton was compelled to warn her to be more serious. As she stood before the judge, one of the matrons, Mrs. Irene Wolfe, put an arm around Mrs. Snyder's waist to support her. Later, Mrs. Wolfe remarked that there was no need of such a precaution.

Hazleton conferred with her in the jail after she was sentenced. She was in good spirits, according to attendants, and confident she would never go to the electric chair.

"This is only a formality," they quoted her as saying. "I have just as good a chance now of going free as I had before the trial started."

PLANES GATHERING TO TAKE PART IN BIG "WAR"

Rhode Island Has Appearance of Battle Front With Aircraft, Warships on Hand

Newport, R. I., May 13—Rhode Island today took on the appearance of war time, as the advance guard of the big black and blue war game forces began to gather.

Twenty-two seaplanes from Norfolk took trial flights over Newport and the U. S. S. Pateka, mast ship of the dirigible Los Angeles, anchored off shore with 12 planes aboard.

The U. S. S. Wright, naval airship "mother" ship, was also in port.

An air base was being set up in Middletown.

On Monday a fleet of 137 battleships and smaller naval craft, known as the "black" invaders, will launch an attack against the "blue" defenders.

RULING GIVEN

School Boards In Authority On Use of Building, Turner Decides

Columbus, May 13—School boards may authorize, or prohibit use of a school building for sectarian religious purposes, "when such use does not interfere with the use of the school property for school purposes." This ruling was given today by Attorney General E. C. Turner to officials in the state bureau of public accounting.

"When, in the judgment of a board of education, it will be for the advantage of the children residing in any school district to permit the use of the school building therein for holding religious exercises, when such use does not interfere with the use of the building for strictly school purposes, such permission may lawfully be granted, even though such religious exercises are conducted under the auspices of some particular religious society" Turner held.

The body of Aaron Morgan, 49, of Jellico, Tenn., Spanish American War Veteran, who died of tuberculosis Tuesday afternoon at the Dayton National Soldiers' Hospital, arrived here this afternoon and was removed to the J. Funeral services will be held from the Hall home in charge of the American Legion. Burial will be in Marion Cemetery. The time of the funeral has not been decided.

MARION ON COAL LINE URGED IN RAIL MERGER

Head of C. & O. Says Proposed Route Through Here Superior to Others

The line of the Erie Railroad from Marion to Chicago would furnish, in connection with the Hocking Valley and Chesapeake & Ohio from Russell, Ky., a superior line to Chicago for the transportation of coal, as compared with the C. & O.'s existing line through Cincinnati, declared W. J. Harahan, president of the C. & O., in his testimony yesterday before the interstate commerce commission at Washington, in support of the revised Van Sweringen rail merger plan.

To improve the existing line would cost around $34,000,000, he said, while the C. & O. could buy control of the Erie for $52,042,573 or only about $8,000,000 more than the cost of obtaining what he said would be an inferior line from Cincinnati to Chicago. In addition, he stated, the Erie would return a substantial amount on the investment made in it.

"There is no other line in existence which will equal the Chesapeake & Ohio Hocking Valley Erie line and no better line can be constructed between the coal fields and Chicago, considering grade and economy of service," said Harahan.

BELIEVE FLIERS MAY BE IN LABRADOR WILDS

Remarkable Escape of Major Martin Recalled by Navy Air Experts

Washington, May 13—The possibility that Captains Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli, transoceanic fliers, may be struggling to find their way to civilization from the wilds of Labrador or Newfoundland continued to occupy the attention of army and navy aviation experts here today.

Despite the sharp lookouts maintained at sea, officials base their chief hopes, as from the first, on the possibility that the fliers reached land far north of their proposed course.

The remarkable escape of Maj. Frederick Martin, army round-the-world flier, was pointed to by navy experts. Major Martin crashed into the side of a mountain in Alaskan territory and finally was rescued. The French fliers, it was said, might have run into a mountain in Labrador.

LOS ANGELES IN SEARCH FOR MEN

Lakehurst, N. J., May 13—The U. S. Navy dirigible Los Angeles left the naval air station at 5:10 o'clock (daylight saving time) to cruise off the Long Island coast. The dirigible will keep a sharp lookout for traces of the White Bird, the plane used by Capt. Charles Nungesser and Capt. Francois Coli, missing French aviators. The Los Angeles was to have joined the Nungesser search yesterday but bad weather prevented. The great airship which is under command of Commdr. C. E. Rosendahl and carries a crew of 39 men, will remain aloft as long as visibility remains favorable.

PROTESTS AGAINST PIG IRON FREIGHT RATES

Columbus, May 13—Attorney R. E. Quirk, Washington, D. C., counsel for the American Rolling Mill Co., today filed a brief with the state utilities commission in support of the company's request that the commission order the Hocking Valley Railway Co. to reduce its freight rate on pig iron shipments from Middletown to Columbus from $1.85 to not to exceed $1.405 per gross ton.

The brief contains argument in support of the contention that the $1.85 rates "is unjust and unreasonable."

Boston, Mass., May 13—Anna Eva Fay, for almost 50 years America's foremost theatrical mystic and mind reader, who died yesterday, will be buried at Wyoming, Mass., in a mausoleum which she had built in 1903 for the body of her only son. Miss Fay was married in 1881 to David H. Pingree, her manager. She was a native of Southington, Ohio. Services probably will be held Sunday.

AGAINST LIPSTICK

House of Commons Lined Up in Vigorous Attack

London, May 13—The lipstick is under fire in the house of commons.

Colonel Day has queried the minister of health as to what steps he will take to prevent women from being poisoned by the use of cheap lipsticks. Another member proposed that lipsticks be entirely forbidden.

The minister of health is not prepared to announce a definite course of action.

RUSSIANS TO PROTEST ENGLISH POLICE RAID

Rupture of Anglo-Russ Trade Agreement Expected To Follow Action

London, May 13—Formal protest against the police raids on Arcos, Ltd., headquarters of the Soviet trade delegation and the Soviet trading organization in London, was made today by Russian Charge Rosengoltz.

The Russian charge called on Sir Austen Chamberain, foreign minister, this afternoon and registered a diplomatic protest against the action of the police. It is understood that the protest was based on the fact that the official Soviet trade delegation has diplomatic immunity.

There appeared to be little chance of the British government backing down on the action taken by the police and a rupture of the Anglo-Russian trade agreement is expected to follow.

Meanwhile scores of policemen, some of them armed, remained in possession of Soviet house, headquarters of the Soviet Russian trade delegation, which was raided yesterday.

The exact object of the raid still is unexplained in official circles, although it is believed the police are searching for evidence of organized propaganda against the British government.

Belief exists that the raid will result in the breaking off of British relations with Moscow.

BORER WORK

tions were given them by Foster L. Pinkle, supervisor of the campaign in Marion and Wyandot Counties.

They were informed that all plans have been completed for an enforced clean up by state forces on farms where the land owners have not put their fields in condition to pass inspection.

In order that the work may be done speedily and thoroughly as possible, three additional inspectors are to be appointed today, making a total of seven for the nine townships included in Marion County's quarantine area.

Although the clean-up generally is under federal supervision and regulations, the actual work is to be done by officials and crews employed by the state department of agriculture, it was explained today.

Plows Arrive

The first consignment of plows, consisting of six three-bottom 16-inch gang plows to be attached to the larger tractors and two of the single bottom 14-inch type to be used with Fordson tractors, has arrived and is now distributed throughout the county.

Pinkle stated that these plows are to be used only for the purpose of turning under corn stalks or stubble on farms where land owners or tenants have not done the work and persist in their refusal to do it.

The plows are not for hire by farmers behind in their work and where they are used in the clean up the land owner relinquishes all right to any government allowance provided for those who do the work voluntarily, Pinkle said.

Plowing Cost

The approximate cost of plowing chargeable to the land owner, will be $1 an acre, including the penalty for having failed to comply with the government regulations.

The Marion County inspectors are out today winding up their survey of the quarantine area. They will serve notices on all owners of land where the clean up work has not been done, giving them 48 hours to comply with the official regulations. This will set the stage for the state clean-up crews, who are expected to start operations the first of next week.

In addition to plowing many fields in the county, there will be need of a vast amount of hand picking on hundreds of additional acres, Supervisor Pinkle states. He expressed the opinion that it would be to the farmers' advantage to hire extra help in cases where there is little left to be done to pass inspection, rather than to forfeit the $2 allowance for each acre and in addition pay the cost of hand picking by the state forces.

CONTINUE CASE AGAINST SINCLAIR AND FALL

Government Awarded Trial Delay Until Oct. 17 Over Defense Protest

Washington, May 13—The government's conspiracy case against Harry Sinclair and ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, which was to have gone to trial May 23, was today postponed until Oct. 17.

Justice Hitz, in district supreme court, granted the government's motion for continuance, although attorneys for Sinclair and Fall insisted they were ready to go to trial.

The government desired a continuance because of the continued absence abroad of H. M. Blackmer and J. E. O'Neil, wealthy western oil magnates whose testimony is deemed vital to the government's case. Process servers have been trailing the pair through Europe for two years.

The delegates are Leonardo Arguello, secretary of government in the Sacasa administration; Rodolfo Espinosa, secretary of foreign relations, and Cordero Reyes, private secretary to Dr. Juan Sacasa, self-proclaimed provisional president of the Liberals.

The Sacasa commissioners arrived late yesterday enroute for Puerto Cabezas to make a report to Dr. Sacasa. They traveled on the United States destroyer Preston from Corinto, remaining overnight in Panama City. This afternoon the Preston will carry them through the Panama Canal and on to Puerto Cabezas.

Asked if the 6,000 Nicaraguan Liberals now under arms would attempt to fight against the United States, the delegates replied:—

The "future cannot be predicted."

CANINES MAY DIE BUT TAXES LIVE AFTER THEM

Bowling Green Township Man Pays Assessment Outstanding 15 Years

DOGS may die, but their taxes live after them.

Evidence of this developed yesterday at the office of C. H. Randles, delinquent personal tax collector, when he received a remittance for an assessment levied against a canine in Bowling Green Township in the years 1912 and 1913.

The tax remained unpaid during the decade and a half elapsing since the levies were made and came in yesterday as the result of a notice mailed out by Randles in starting the work here as collector.

The dog passed out of existence several years ago, the owner informed Randles, but failed to take his tax assessment with him. The charge for the two years was $2.

The remittance, which came from a Bowling Green Township farmer, was among the first received after Randles started his collection notices through the mails.

Randles expects to clean up many of the old tax accounts, some of which date back as far as 1907. The county's personal tax delinquents, which Randles has contracted to collect, total approximately $40,000.

FOREIGN CONCERNS TO COMPETE FOR $50,000

Both Germans and Dutch to Submit Designs For New U. S. Airship

Washington, May 13—Foreign airship builders will compete with Americans for the $50,000 prize offered to the successful designer of the huge new dirigible to be built for the navy, it was learned today.

"I understand that both German and Dutch designers will submit plans, and it is probable that other foreigners will enter the competition," said C. P. Burgess, the navy's civilian expert in airship design.

No prejudice will be shown to foreign designers, it was indicated by naval officers, although the congressional act authorizing the airship requires that it be built in the United States.

Because the airship—two and a half times as large as the Los Angeles in cubic feet capacity—will be the greatest ever built, the navy offered a large prize to bring the best brains of the world to its aid.

All designs must be forwarded to the navy department by next Monday midnight. The special board of which Rear-Admiral Moffett, chief of the air service, will be senior member, will convene on May 20 to discuss plans. Award will be made by July 1 and it is expected that work on the dirigible will get under way by December. Two years will be required to build it, naval officers estimated.

-o- The New Book -o-

BY FRANCES JENNINGS

IN his new book, "The Pope of the Sea" Vicente Blasco Ibanez has scarcely maintained the reputation of as author of exceptional ability accorded him with the publication of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse". Although a worthy book and successful in its purpose—namely that of relating, in detail, the tragic life of an early pope—known as the "pope of the sea", Ibanez has committed one serious error.

He relates his story through the conversion of two modern characters, both of personalities hardly in sympathy with the historically interesting pope. In introducing the two, the one a sensuous Argentine widow of vast wealth, and the other, a poetical, imaginative young man, ambitiously seeking material for his biography of the same pope, Ibanez has doubtless thought to hold his reader's interest. But in transferring his readers from the picturesque antiquated fourteenth cenury into the sensuous reality of the nineteenth cetnury, Ibanez breds only disgust.

Had Borjia, the imaginative young man who, though conversation, relates the tale, been of different caliber—elderly, unimaginative perhaps, at least wholeheartedly interested in his work and less in his attractive listener, the story might have been more acceptable.

As the two characters proceed through southern Italy, the country in which the pope had lived, the tale is gradually revealed.

• • •

PEDRO DE LUNA, later to be known has the "pope o the sea," is, according to Borjia, a "sober, virtuous man in an environment of general looseness, whose blameless life caused him to stand out among men of his generation." Luna, who later became the pope of Avignon, began his career as a soldier and maintained a warlike tenacity throughout his life, sparing nothing in his struggle to establish and maintain his right to the papacy. He gained the name, "pope of the sea," when he personally headed a fleet of ships and sailed from port to port as his popularity permitted, and his struggle for supermacy necessitated.

Ibanez has rightly subtitled his book an historical medley, for he pictures the beautiful and historically interesting country of southern France and Italy in connection with his narrative and delves into the lives of such as Petrarch, the early Italian poet.

"The Pope of the Sea" was translated from the Spanish by Arthur Livingston and published by E. P. Dutton and Co. in January of this year. Other books by the same author are "Blood and Sand," "The Mayflower," "The Torrent" and "The Enemies of Women."

PULITZER AUTHOR PLANS NEW BOOK

Louis Bromfield, author of "Early Autumn," the novel of American life which was awarded the Pulitzer Novel Prize this year, will publish a new novel, "A Good Woman," in July. It is the story of a middle-western steel town and is written from Paris, where Bromfield has lived with his wife and small daughter, for more than a year. Others of his novels are "Possession" and "The Green Bay Tree."

Mr. Bromfield is of Boston-Maryland stock and, although born in Mansfield, O., spent much time in New England. He first worked on a Mansfield newspaper was a student in the Cornell School of Agriculture and then served in the World War with the French Army. His literary career began when he accepted a position with the New York City News Association.

Equally interesting is Paul Green, the young University instructor from North Carolina, whose play, "In Abraham's Bosom" was awarded the Pulitzer drama prize this year. DAIRIES SEEK TO BETTER MILK SUPPLY, CLAIM

T. Gruber, Inspector, Praises Efforts of Plants To Improve Quality

...operation on the part of ... effort to produce only milk ... quality, is reported by ... Inspector Dr. John T. ... City Health Department. ... of such co-operation is ... Dr. Gruber in the in... ...est thermometer by four... ...g dairies of the city. ... of pasteurization is an ... in the production of ... milk, according to Dr. ... The test thermometer is ... signed for the purpose of ... a record of the length of time the pasteurization is carried on and the degree of heat reached.

The instrument is provided with a pen carrying red ink which operates on a paper disk upon which is printed lines representing minutes and lines representing degrees of heat. Each day Dr. Gruber visits these dairies and collects the paper disks which tell him accurately the length of time each batch of milk was in the pasterization tank and the length of time it was held at the pasteurization point.

In a properly pasteurized batch of milk, the red line shows as a dot when the milk is poured in, as the heat increases, the red line travels up until a point between 143 and 141 degrees is reached, the pen then travels along this line for 30 minutes when it again drops down as a new supply of cold milk is poured into the tank.

Upon the proper pasteurization, depends the death of the unwanted germs and the length of time the milk will stay sweet. Dairies that have already installed the test thermometer are the Isaly, Moores & Ross, Ideal and Zachman's. E. E. Parish of the Parish Dairy said yesterday that he probably will install one of the thermometers.

BEHIND THE SCREEN

Lillian Gish

WHAT unbelievable news is this: Lillian Gish, the ethereal, wistful bit of a girl who usually draws the tears of her audience in great profusion is to discard her role of pathetic appeal in her next picture to become a real peppy out of doors girl.

Lillian is excited about it. For it will be the first time in her career that she will play with western actors, heroes and horses. She never had believed that studio officials would permit her to take part in such thrillers, but she always has nursed a secret ambition to appear in one, just one.

This strange situation has come about through the filming of "The Wind," a romance of Texas. Miss Gish is to portray the role of a delicately nurtured southern girl thrust suddenly into the hardships of the primitive west, who is adapting herself with surprising quickness to her new surroundings.

It will be a novelty, to say the least, to see the tearful, suffering star as a dating, laughing girl.

If you contemplate breaking into the movies, consider the following figures: There are about 710 extra jobs available a day in Hollywood. There are approximately 18,000 persons there seeking these jobs. An extra's chance of getting work is in the ratio of about 1 to 6. A newcomer's chances are less than that because experienced people are taken first. The statistics are from the Central Casting Bureau of Hollywood.

An old Belasco play, "The Heart of Maryland" will be Dolores Costello's next starring picture. This play once brought Mrs. Leslie Carter into prominence

The announcement that Morris Gest is lending his genius to the motion picture art is stirring much comment everywhere. The latest report is that he hopes to induce Feodor Chaliapin and George Arliss to join the cast of his first film "The Darling of the Gods."

And now the church has taken the "movies" into the fold. The directors of the first Congregation Church of San Bernardino, Cal., have invited Bill Cody, western star, to take the pulpit for a half hour to talk on the making of clean pictures.

POLICE GET REPORTS ON THEFT OF FLOWERS

Warning Issued Against Practice of Entering Gardens To Steal Blooms

Police are being faced with their annual problem of apprehending or eliminating in some manner, the thief who each year visits gardens in all parts of the city for the purpose of stealing flowers. Each day brings new reports to the police by someone whose garden has been robbed of blooms.

The capture of the ordinary offender presents an easy problem police say compared to the apprehension of the flower thief who is usually a boy or boys and sometimes, girls, who take the flowers without any thought as to the seriousness of the offense. An effort, however, will be made by the police and any boy or girl discovered on the streets at night with a suspicious looking bouquet will very likely be questioned as to the source of the flowers.

61 GROWING YEARS.

SCHAF

If Youth But Knew

BY NORMAN E. MACK,
Publisher and Political Leader

STICK to your job! That is my cardinal rule. Years ago I decided to enter the newspaper business as proprietor. It was no snap and required hard work, confidence, patience and more hard work. I was inspired every day that success awaited me. It was a dogged determination and I stuck to the job every day. Of course, all boys don't succeed. But I have noticed that nine out of ten succeed if they will let a little inspiration creep into business.

Perhaps you may be deciding on a career as lawyer, doctor, merchant, farmer or some business or professional life. Whatever it may be there is only one motto—Stick to your job! Be inspired! Don't let self-confidence flit away from you. Don't be afraid of hard work. Don't keep your eyes on the clock. The boy that succeeds today is the one who is willing to work and struggle long hours for small pay. See inspiration to achieve greater things and I am sure this dogged determination will be fruitful.

Another important step in building a successful business career is the making of friends. Mix with people, rich and poor, and hold no ill feelings against anyone. Take an interest in your neighbors. Making friends has been a great factor in my success. The same recipe applies to you. I pity the man or boy, who thinks he can climb to the top of the ladder and purposely ignore friends and neighbors. It can't be done!

Take an interest in your government! That is another rule for success. Attend local political meetings. Be a part of the government in city, county, state and national affairs. Attend party conventions and be active in party movement. If you cannot attend as a delegate go to the convention as a citizen or taxpayer. Boys seeking their first job should take keen interest in government affairs and party politics.

Lead a simple, plain life! A boy who dissipate and stay up all hours of the morning and give his employer full return for his wages. It also slows up energy and mars personality. It destroys initiative. It hampers success. The boy with grit, courage, inspiration, dogged determination is bound to win.

MARION MAN RELEASED ON PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

A. D. McIlvain Arrested as Representative of Creditors' Association

Charging that the Marion Creditors' Association, McNeal Wolford Bldg., had embezzled $155.02 in the form of collections made for his company, Clarence Bowe, of the Bowe Ice Cream Co., filed an affidavit in municipal court yesterday against A. D. McIlvain as a representative of the association.

McIlvain was arrested shortly after 10 o'clock and when arraigned before Judge Martin denied that he was a stockholder in the association and said the entire matter of collections was in the hands of his son, L. S. McIlvain. The only connection he had with the association, he said, was a mortgage which he held.

He admitted te $155.05 had been collected by the association, however, and said it had been deposited by his son in a local bank to his credit and that the bank had taken over the money to cover overdue notes held against the younger McIlvain. McIlvain was dismissed when he pleaded not guilty. No affidavit has been filed against the younger McIlvain.

GIRL IS SENT BACK TO HOME IN WASHINGTON

Dayton, May 13—Dorothy Boyins, 16, was enroute to her home at Washington, D. C., today, and Fred Parker, 40, and Ernest Burns 28, were enroute to Anderson, Ind., after their release by department of justice investigations.

The girl who was accompanying Parker and Burns in two airplanes from the Washington aircraft show, was detained at the request of her mother who had instituted a nation-wide search for her following her disappearance several days ago.

Parker agreed to pay the girl's expenses back to the capital.

The girl said her mother was a widow, and that her father was killed several years ago in an accident.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE GIVEN CALEDONIA MAN

A suspended sentence of 90 days in the county jail was given Joe Croft, of Caledonia, by Judge Martin in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to support his four minor children. Croft who was arrested on a farm near Lykens by Humane Officer Ullom last night, was released on his arranging to pay $20 a month toward the support of the children. The affidavit was filed by W. T. Niles.

LIBRARY APPROPRIATION VETO HARMFUL, CLAIM

H. S. Hirshberg, State Librarian, Says Action Blot on Ohio's Fair Name

Columbus, May 13 Claim that Gov. Vic Donahey's veto of the $120,000 appropriated by the Ohio legislature for operating expenses of the state library during the 18 months fiscal period beginning July 1, next, "if allowed to take effect, will be a serious blow to the educational interests, advancement and progress of the state," was voiced here today by Herbert S. Hirshberg, state librarian.

"Public libraries are a recognized part of the educational machinery and equipment, and with the extension of new educational ideas and methods, the public library is becoming more and more indispensable," said Hirshberg. "The elimination of a state organization for library service would be a blot upon the fair name of Ohio and a step which would place her with the half dozen backward states."

Hirshberg pointed out that the legislative reference division of the state library drafts "more than two-thirds of the bills introduced each session of the general assembly and, between sessions, collects material and does research work in preparation for legislation, as well as providing students with governmental material which can be found nowhere else in Ohio."

LEGIONNAIRES PLAN JULY 4 CELEBRATION

Horse Racing To Feature Program at Union County Fairgrounds

Marysville, May 13—Plans for the big Fourth of July celebration to be staged at the Union County fair grounds by members of Union Post No. 59 American Legion are nearing completion. One of the latest additions to the long list of amusements suggested for the day is horse racing.

The arrangements call for three races or less. The first will be a free for all trot with a purse of $125. There will also be a green trot and a green pace with purses of $125 each. A mule race will add excitement and the prize for the winner of this race will be $15. Col. Vic Peters will be the starter.

The celebration is to come to a climax in the evening with an array of fire works. Among the other attractions will be the huge gun which has occupied a position on the court house yard. The legion at its last meeting voted to equip the Legion band with new uniforms. The band will appear in these for the first time at the Memorial Day celebration.

The ruing committee is headed by Louis P. Rausch and the following legionnaires: Arthur Bartholomai, Russell Hamilton and Chad Amrine. This committee expects to have an unusually fine array of horses for the races.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM

Strickland Gilliland and Goforth's Orchestra To Appear at Marysville

Marysville, May 13—At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Marysville chautauqua association plans were made for the program to be given here this summer. Some difficulty was encountered last summer in securing enough guarantors to make it safe to launch another chautauqua for the coming summer.

The committee has secured a number of additional guarantors which if added to those taken last summer will make the proposition a safe one in a financial way. According to information given out by the program committee the program this year will be one of the best ever put on here.

Some high spots in the program as planned are an address by Strickland Gilliland in his latest chautauqua address "North of the Ears." Ex-Governor Harding of Minnesota will also be on the program with an interesting address. The dramatic talent for the program will be furnished by the Boyd Dramatic Co., who will appear in two plays. Goforth's Orchestra will also fill the platform for one session.

New York State Group of Farmers Buy, Make Success Out of Defunct Railroad

CORNING, N. Y., May 13—Farmers are not infrequently charged with being poor business men, but those residing between Kanona and Prattsburgh, in Steuben County, New York, have succeeded in making a defunct railroad pay expenses, if not large dividends. The K. & P. is one of the shortest railroads in the United States, it having only 11 miles of rails, but it connects with the Erie Railroad at Kanona and penetrates a rich rural territory.

In 1886 Martin Phinney of Prattsburgh conceived the idea of the railroad and it was opened to traffic two years later but failed to pay expenses from the start. After investing liberally, its founder withdrew from the company and the mortgage was foreclosed by New York financial interests. It was operated, however, until 1917 when the mortgage holders decided to junk the line. But the farmers using the route to get fruit and produce into metropolitan markets objected and offered to buy the line to save it.

Expenses Readily Met

Organizing a company, the farmer promoters sold enough stock to take up the mortgage and came into possession of the property, which was in a dilapidated condition. Repairs and renewals were made as rapidly as possible and the road and rolling stock put in first class condition, all expenses being met from the very minute the new owners assumed charge.

To save legal expenses the farmers elected a lawyer, Attorney James H. Flaherty, of Bath, N. Y., president of the company and under his control the road has prospered more than ever in its history. Now the owners are living in hope that the interests controlling the Erie Railroad will see the advantage of buying or leasing the K. & P. and extend it to connect with the New York Central at Canandaigua, N. Y., opening an even richer farming community for freight business.

The company owns a locomotive, gasoline operated combination baggage and passenger car, two standard passenger cars and several freight and coal cars. On this short line are the towns of Prattsburg, Pulteney, Wheeler, Avoca, Urbana and Kanona.

Bucyrus, May 13—An anti-corn borer control mass meeting is scheduled for the courthouse at 8 o'clock Saturday night. The meeting to protest present methods of fighting the corn borer was called by C. Wharton's call for the meeting declares: "All persons who think that they are not getting a square deal in the corn borer conflict are invited to attend as well as all members of the Crawford County Taxpayers' League and those wishing to become members."

C. E. Wharton and Frank Holmes will address the meeting. Holmes is editor of the weekly Nevada News and has gained considerable notoriety by his opposition to the campaign. Anticipating a big crowd, Wharton announced that "in event the court room is not large enough to hold the public an open air meeting will be addressed from the steps of the courthouse by both speakers."

Parents, Friends Guests at Galion's Night School

GALION, May 13—The annual night session of Galion high school was held last night when parents and friends of the students were given a chance to glimpse school life and study the methods used in training the youth of the city. The regular afternoon session of school took place at 7:30 o'clock and large crowds of interested citizens attended the various dedication and laboratory periods. Members of the student council were on duty in the corridors and served as guides to strangers.

Besides the regular outlined work special exhibits were given displaying the work of the vocational departments. In the gymnasium the manual training exhibit of various articles of well made furniture attracted much attention. Advertising posters were on display in the salesmanship department and miniature showcases had been arranged to represent many of Galion's prominent stores.

Certificates Awarded

Certificates were awarded to worthy commercial students in both typewriting and stenography. Helen Spiggle, Mildred Mittman and Ruth McMahon, winners of the typing contests recently conducted, gave demonstrations of their abilities and Geraldine Heiby, Pauline Young and Rosemary Crumb leaders of the shorthand class were featured in a dictation test.

The real attraction was the Model Home in that portion of the high school building which is devoted to the girl students who are studying home problems. A new scheme of decoration was used with splendid results, various foodstuffs were displayed and the costume design and art classes presented an array of beautiful articles. This department is under the supervision of Miss Ada Gregg.

Science students were at work in the laboratories and the biology display was of unusual interest. The night school project again met with favor and those who attended are now able to better appreciate the work of the schools.

Tonight the elementary schools are holding similar demonstrations and programs.

YOUTHS PLEAD GUILTY BEFORE KENTON MAYOR

Pair Confesses Part in Several Robberies to Police; Bound Over

Kenton, May 13—Arrest of two youths in connection with a series of robberies in Kenton, arrest of another on suspicion in the robbing of the Frank Durick clothing store at Ada, and an investigation of a robbery of the Perry J. Decker general store at Jumbo, southwest of here, were reported by Kenton and Hardin County officials yesterday during one of their busiest days this year.

Pleading guilty before Mayor H. C. Herren to charges of breaking into and robbing four business houses here last week, Pete Nichols, 18, and Harold Williams, 19, were held to the Hardin County grand jury under $1,000 bond each.

Make Confession

They were taken on innovation charges and later, officials said, made a complete confession of the robberies.

Places entered were the Harrison Creamery, the Robinson & Gage Lumber Co. offices, Swartz Battery shop and the Bauman grocery. A total of $20 in money and a quantity of merchandise and materials comprised the loot, police said. The two are being held in jail here in default of bond.

Sheriff John W. Crooks and his deputy, Waldo Haudenschild are today endeavoring to uncover some clue in the robbing of the Decker general store and auto service station of $15 in money and merchandise valued at more than $100. It included a shotgun sugar, flour and smaller articles.

Door Forced

Entrance to the store was gained by forcing open the front door. Tracks in the soft earth indicated that the loot was loaded through a side window into an automobile.

The third arrest occurred when Tom Burchell, McGuffey, was taken by county officials on suspicion in connection with the robbery of the Ada clothing store of spring suits and men's furnishings valued at more than $1,500. Warrants are being awaited from Ada charging Burchell with aiding and abetting criminals, Sheriff Crooks said today.

It is charged that the McGuffey youth allowed Tom Pemberton and Charles Thomas, believed by officials to be the ones who robbed the store, to use his automobile. It was learned here today that Pemberton is also wanted by authorities in West Virginia.

License tags on the car used by the robbers to make their escape and later abandoned, led to Burchell's arrest.

MT. GILEAD HIGH BANDS HEARD IN FINE CONCERT

Junior High Musical Organization Makes Debut at Levering Hall

Mt. Gilead, May 13—An hour and a quarter of excellent and varied musical entertainment was offered at Levering Hall last night at the High school band concert.

The Junior Band made its debut at the opening of the program and gave an excellent account of itself. The organization played "Activity," a march by Bennett and "Norma's Dream Waltz," by the same composer. The band is made up of about 40 boys and girls from the Junior High and grades, many of whom started on their instruments only this year. Under the direction of Prof. E. J. Fitchhorn, they have attained sufficient excellency, that they will be amply able to assume the place made vacant in the High school band by the graduation of members.

Cornet Duet

Another number that won the praise and admiration of the audience was a cornet duet by Merle Baird and Edwin Pittman, who are both seventh graders. They played "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean."

The flute class of the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth grades made up of 16 members played "Ten Little Indians," and "America." The youngsters made a decided hit and showed that they are making an excellent start toward the High school band.

Harold Brooks and Prof. E. J. Fitchhorn played "Pals" a cornet polka duet.

Humor was added to the program by a clown band contest.

Other numbers played by the band were: "Men of Ohio," march, (Eilenberg); "The Conqueror," overture, (King); "In the Shadows," serenade, (S. Koschat); "Water Lillies," waltz, (King); "Selections from Faust," (Gounod); "Home Sweet Home," "The World Over," (Lampe).

The program was concluded with the Mt. Gilead High School Band's Marching Song, by Holden, the words to which were written by E. B. Wilson.

The proceeds from the concert will be used to pay the balance on the band uniforms purchased this year.

Nutrition experts give a new importance to the whole grains

Why is it that mothers are now being urged so strongly to give whole-grain foods? It is because they provide so much that is needed for normal growth in children (and radiant health in later years).

Mother's Oats, with milk, supplies a rich store of vitamins and minerals which are lacking in an ordinary highly-refined cereal.

The tender bran of the oat, so valuable for roughage, is included, too. These important factors, too often neglected, make a bowl of Mother's Oats with milk a growth food which mothers everywhere are appreciating more and more.

Children love its rich flavor and notice the smooth, even texture which results from the extra-careful way it is milled.

Two kinds—the kind you have always known as Quick (cooks in 2½ to 3 minutes). Both with coupons interchangeable with the Aunt Jemima coupons, which bring you electrical conveniences, books, toys for the children, etc.

HARDLY ABLE TO GET BREATH DUE TO STOMACH GAS

This surprising medical compound, Konjola, which the Konjola Man is now planning to crowds of people daily at The Stump Pharmacy, (Stump and

MRS. HELEN DEFENBAUGH

Sauer), 121 South Main St., Marion, has brought amazing relief to countless cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders. Many are giving reports about the work of this medicine. Just recently, Mrs. Helen Defenbaugh, 120 Euclid Ave., Lima, Ohio, made the following statement about Konjola:

"I am free of stomach trouble since I have taken Konjola," said Mrs. Defenbaugh, "and this medicine also benefited me in other ways, because I am feeling better than I have in years.

"My trouble started with indigestion, and the past two years my stomach kept getting worse. I suffered after every meal. I would burn from the pit of my stomach to my throat, and was troubled with heart palpitation.

"I had been in these miseries a long time, and couldn't find a thing to help me. Sometimes I took soda for relief, but usually after the next meal I was worse than before. I heard about Konjola, and this medicine proved to be entirely different from all other remedies I had tried. I got wonderful relief from the gas and indigestion pains. I noticed I was feeling better every day, and now I can eat anything I want because my food agrees with me. My strength is built up wonderful, and I can sleep better and my nerves are stronger. The heartburn, bloating and all other miseries have gone entirely. After the great good Konjola has done for me, I certainly indorse such a medicine."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump Pharmacy, (Stump and Sauer), 121 South Main St., Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given. Adv.

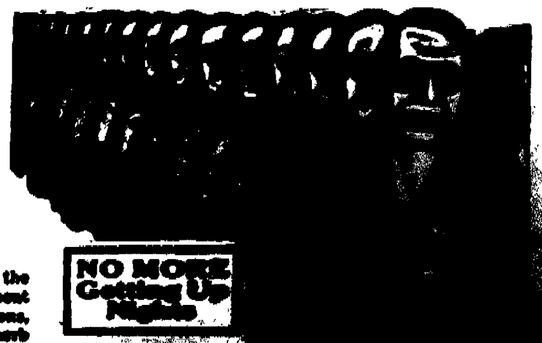
KIDNEY AND BLADDER SUFFERERS OF MARION, O. READ MY STORY

Amazing Story of 63-Year-Old Man Who Relieved Kidney, Bladder and Rheumatic Pains Through the Use of MATAMEL, MADE FROM SAP OF THE MAGUEY PLANT. Not a Patent Medicine.



NO MORE Getting Up Nights

Suppose you were 63 years old, had suffered with kidney and bladder torture for one-quarter of a century—so bad, in fact, you had to give up your job and expected the worst almost any time. Suppose you spent thousands of dollars for doctors and prescriptions, all without success—would you try a natural herb sap discovered by a former professor at one of America's best colleges who worked years in Mexico to bring it to your town?

That was the problem that faced Mr. William Read, one of the oldest and best known residents of New Haven, Conn. After talking with a New York nurse he decided to try Matamel. Did he get results? Let Mr. Read tell you himself:

SPORT SAUCE

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB

ENTRIES in the first official North Central Ohio League track and field meet, sponsored by Mansfield High and to be held at Mansfield Saturday, are far from bright, according to the latest word received from that city.

For weeks, Mansfield has been planning a rousing reception for all runners and field athletes of the various N. C. O. schools, and now, at the last minute, comes the word that only two will join the Big Red in the dedication of its new cinder track.

It is indeed rather discouraging. Harding High would have taken part had the district meet at Delaware not been moved ahead a week, thus conflicting with the N. C. O. affair, but it appears that Shelby and Bucyrus never heard of track. Delaware, it will be remembered, dropped from the N. C. O. league a few months ago, leaving only Galion and Ashland to join Mansfield in the meet.

But the athletic department at Mansfield is game. Instead of calling off the meet, as it would be perfectly justified in doing, it is working that much harder in a last minute effort to bring in a number of outside teams to make the affair a success.

Members of that department should be congratulated and we wish them all the luck in the world in their meet.

STEPPING the quarter mile in 56 seconds is no easy task for any person even when the wind isn't blowing about 20 miles an hour against him but that's what Hugh Shultz, Harding High's star track man, accomplished in the inter-class meet on the fairground track.

That was a week ago on a dirt track. Just what will that young man do the 440 in Saturday when he has on a pair of spiked shoes with a cinder track under him? Think it over. If Hughie is at his best Saturday, we predict a victory for him in the quarter during the Central Ohio district high school track and field meet.

THE Marion recreational ball season is officially under way.

At last, after a series of delays for reasons mentioned and unmentioned, the Industrial loop has gained the honor of being the first of the city leagues to swing into action in 1927. The first games were played last night, three days after the scheduled opening date.

Yes, the season's open, but evidently the weatherman took it for granted that the boys were throwing the ball around in preparation for a snowball fight. It was ideal football weather and needed only a touch of snow to convince some of the men with the numbed fingers that King Winter had returned.

And, by the way, is there anything that hurts worse than catching a baseball on the end of a cold, numb finger? The answer is unanimously in the negative.

THE remarkable individual ability of "Tiny" Johnson, the boy from Prospect High who tips the Fairbanks around the 250 mark and heaves a 12-pound ball of steel almost 50 feet, recalls the days when Prospect paid homage to another track man.

Pete Anson, a graduate of Prospect High and now a junior in Ohio State University, a few years ago was the sensation of the district meet and state meet at Columbus. Anson cleared the bar at six feet, three inches in the high jump, stepped the quarter mile in 52 seconds, and was on the end of the relay team that won the event at Delaware.

Last year he made a splendid record for himself in the Big Ten track meets but the spring scholastic difficulties have brought on ineligibility.

HELEN WILLS TO LEAVE FOR ENGLAND TONIGHT

New York, May 13—Miss Helen Wills, former national tennis champion, will sail on the Tuscania at midnight tonight for England to play in the Wimbledon championships. She will be accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Clarence A. Wills.

Miss Wills planned to engage in a final practice session this afternoon with Elmer Griffin, a fellow Californian.

Industrial Loop Opens Recreational Ball Season

STABLEMATES BUT RIVALS

Bostonian, winner of the valuable Preakness, and Valorous, early mentioned as a coming star of the three-year-olds this season, are both members of the Whitney stable. Valorous was favored over Bostonian as a possible Kentucky Derby starter until Bostonian copied the earlier Preakness. Bostonian at top, Valorous below.

Harding High Will Not Enter N. C. O. Track Meet

HARDING High will not participate in the North Central Ohio League track and field meet to be held at Mansfield Saturday since the date of that tourney conflicts with the Central Ohio district meet at Delaware.

A last minute check up on the N. C. O. meet at Mansfield has the management guessing. It is said that every high school on the league accepted the invitation to join Mansfield in the meet when the event was first planned. Now it develops that only Ashland and Galion will be on hand.

Since only two of the league teams are to appear, the management of the tourney has made it an invitation affair and is attempting to get as many outside teams in as possible in order to make the performance a success. Medina is the only team named so far.

With only Galion, Medina, and Ashland to battle, Mansfield High will have a soft snap. It has already cleaned up on Ashland and it is said that Galion has a team that would stand a good chance with the Ashland outfit. Medina may be a little stronger but not enough so to do any serious damage.

Bucyrus and Shelby have no track team and Delaware long ago dropped from competitive athletics in the North Central Ohio League. Delaware, by the way, will see action against Harding in the Central Ohio meet Saturday.

The Harding crew is all set for a big day at Delaware Saturday and will at least be powerful in numbers. Sixteen will make the trip. Shults, Zimmer, Knight and McAninch are the leading contenders for honors. They are expected to place in various events.

Prospect High Favorite at Delaware Track Meet

PROSPECT High School stands an excellent chance of winning the Class B high school Central Ohio district championship in track Saturday when the annual meet is held at Delaware.

That's our prediction, and if "Tiny" Johnson and Dwight Roush are going "hot," we can't lose. "Tiny" should and probably will take three first places, one in the shot put, one in the discus, and one in the javelin throw. And three firsts in a meet where at least 10 schools will be represented, count something.

After "Tiny" has performed in the morning, Roush will strut his stuff in the high jump, broad jump and 100-yd. dash. He should take a first in the broad jump and place in the other two events.

If those two lads perform in a manner of which they are capable, Prospect won't need any other help. They'll have the meet on ice.

It may be remembered that Marysville defeated Prospect and Delaware a week ago in a triangular track meet at Marysville but that is no sign that the Union County team can defeat Prospect in a district meet where more schools are entered. Marysville only took one or two firsts in the triangular meet and many of the seconds which they grabbed a week ago may not even be good for a place at Delaware.

But Johnson and Roush are good enough, that, should they perform like they can, they will be able to cop the meet for their school. Marysville and Bellepoint probably are the other two strongest contenders unless a dark horse in the form of Bexley or Granville presents itself.

C., D. & M. Trounces Hubers, 7 to 1, and Steam Shovel Shops Shut Out Fairfield Engineers, 8-0; Commercial League Starts Tonight

RECREATIONAL ball teams representing the Gardner Tap & Die Co., Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. Erie Roundhouse, and Marion Steam Shovel shops today topped the Industrial League as results of victories in the first games of the 1927 season last night.

Here are the results:

Gardner Tap & Die Co. 8, Osgood 6.
C., D & M. 7, Huber 1.
Erie Shops 4, Marion Packing Co. 3.
M. S. S. Shops 8, Fairfield Engineers, 0.

Two of the first contests proved walkaways but the other two presented plenty of entertainment for the spectators who braved the cold to witness the initial tilts.

The new comer in the league representing the Gardner Tap & Die Co. last night proved itself to be one of the best teams in the loop. Osgood went down to the tune of 8 to 5 before the onslaught of the new outfit. The game was featured by the excellent pitching of Bartsch, who was credited with nine strikeouts, and the batting ability of the majority of the Gardner players. They connected for 13 hits during the contest, while Osgood was lucky to scrape up five.

Corwin and Cleveland were the batteries for the losers, while Bartsch and Corbin represented the Gardner crew in those positions.

Erie Shops Win

With the tally standing three to one against them in the seventh inning of the game with the Marion Packing Co., the boys from the Erie roundhouse found their batting eye and knocked the ball all over the lot. When the spree came to a close, the Erie crew was leading 4 to 3.

W. Merchant and Baumgardner were batteries for the Marion Packing Co. and Lowe and Williams were on the mound and receiving end respectively for the Erie men.

Marion Steam Shovel shops had little trouble in blanking the Fairfield aggregation 8 to 0. They scored in every inning except the first and third while holding their opponents to a limited number of hits. Gambol and Treckey were the Fairfield batteries and Bacon and Little were batteries for the Shovel.

C., D. & M. Is Victor

Staging a batting spree in the third and fourth frames, the C., D & M. nine last night scored six runs in those two innings while Hubers were able to connect for only one tally during the entire battle.

Bigley was on the mound for Huber with Chenoweth catching. Kochensperger and Christman were the C., D. & M. batteries.

The Commercial League will open the season tonight with the Postoffice paying the Eagles on Steam Shovel diamond No. 2, Isaly Dairies meeting the Kiwanians at Fairfield, K. of P. playing the Shovel offices at Lincoln Park and the Marion Stars taking on the Kappa Alpha Phis at Central Junior.

Faculty Crew Takes Firm Hold on High School League Lead

The Faculty took a stronger hold on first place in the high school recreational ball league last night when it trounced Central Juniors, 10 to 6, while Vernon Heights was trimming the Sophomores 4 to 3.

Fadely and Copeland were batteries for Vernon Heights and McAninch and Fetter filled those positions for the Sophomores.

Behjer was on the firing line for the Faculty and Gries was on the receiving end and Hinklin and Zaes were the Central Junior batteries. The next games in the league will be played Monday night.

The best ash the world produces is used for the frames of high grade tennis racquets, and this is especially seasoned for at least two years before it is cut into strips and softened by steam, ready to be bent into perfect ovals.

Giants Again Trim Cards; Yankees Capture Another and Tigers Beat Athletics

Batting Slump of Lester Bell Is Cause of St. Louis' Downfall, Say Critics; Grover Alexander Loses Game in Eleventh Inning

NEW YORK, May 13—A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, as the Bowery saying goes, and the Cardinals gold watch, and the present chapters of the St. Louis Cardinals corresponding batting slump is lessened [illegible] Lester Bell, third baseman. Bell, who last year led the National League in batting with a mark of .371, has been batting around the .200 mark this season. He has driven in only 100 points [illegible] and has failed to connect with the Willow when it [illegible] game.

In the [illegible] the Giants, [illegible] scored seven times [illegible] Glazner and Henry, a recent [illegible] Los Angeles Urpo took [illegible] Harry Wills and missed [illegible] Bell on one [illegible] would have saved [illegible] Angeles Bacon. As it was, [illegible] lost in the eleventh inning, [illegible] unified a hard [illegible] contest. The Giants [illegible] a straight hold on first place [illegible] were five of their last six games.

Yanks Win Again

The Yankees, who also have captured five of their last six games, retained their hold on the American League scramble by beating the Browns 4 to 3. Herb Pennock outpitched Sam Jones and registered his fourth straight victory of the season.

The White Sox nosed out Washington 5 to 4, for their fourth straight win. After Judge had cracked out a homer with two on, Clancy drove in the winning run for the Sox.

Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn, who gained his [illegible] as a strikeout king, went on a batting rampage against the Reds and made four hits for a perfect day at bat. As Vance and the whole Dodger outfit [illegible] four hits, all doubles, he won easily, 6 to 3. The Robins have won eight of their last eleven games.

Charles Root of the Cubs won a 4 to 1 decision from Jack Scott of the Phillies, pushing the Quakers back into the second division. Stephenson's homer made it 10 consecutive games in which a Bruin has hit for the circuit, a National League record.

Pittsburgh nosed out Boston, 8 to 7, in a ding dong battle. The Pirates made four runs in one inning and the Bruves five in another.

Tigers Win

The Tigers knocked Sammy [illegible] for a row of portable bungalows, made six runs in the fourth inning, barely staggered to the wire ahead of the Athletics, 9 to 7. Rip Collins was derricked but received credit for his fourth straight victory of the season.

Rain held the Red Sox and Cleveland idle again.

MAY CHOOSE OFFICIALS IN NOVEL MANNER

Tad Jones, Football Coach at Yale, Calls Meeting of Eastern Mentors

New York, May 13—The appointment of William S. Langford of New York, N. Y., as an arbiter to direct selection of football officials [illegible] for the next two years involving Yale, Harvard and Dartmouth may result in similar action on the part of other Eastern colleges, it was learned today.

Representatives of a dozen eastern colleges have been invited by Tad Jones, Yale coach, to attend a meeting here Saturday night to consider the election of a "dictator" to name referees, umpires and linesmen for intersectional games. Indications were today that Langford, who is secretary of the football rules committee, would get the post.

In the past, rival coaches have selected their own officials. The proposed innovation would prevent any partiality being shown in the matter, it is felt.

Representatives of Pennsylvania, Cornell, Brown, Princeton, Army, Navy and Columbia are expected to attend tomorrow's meeting.

Bostonian and Whiskery, Whitney Entries, Are Next in Line

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13—It may be a case of mixing metaphors in a country where everybody is supposed to mix drinks but the fact of the matter is that the name of Rolled Stocking is on every tongue today, 24 hours before the field will break from the barrier in the race of all races, Kentucky's annual derby.

Stop a horseman, real or fancied, anywhere along Fourth street, which means bracing the first stranger you meet; then ask him who he likes in the race.

In the first place, if you don't, he is likely to misunderstand and either hand you a dime or a clip on the Van Dyke. In the second place, he may know something, since it isn't possible that everybody is as dumb as he looks.

Always Rolled Stocking

Perhaps he will mention the Whitney entry of Bostonian and Whiskery but, if he does, he will qualify the choice by also naming Rolled Stocking. It may be that Rip Rap, of the Sage stable, has caught his fancy, for it is quite remarkable the number of imaginations, this colt has succeeded in intriguing overnight. Again, however, there will be that second guess on Rolled Stocking.

In the same way, it might be Black Panther or Fred, Jr., a feed bill horse that has managed to get himself taken rather seriously, but the stranger somehow will contrive to get Rolled Stocking into the conversation.

Two Out of Five

And at least two men in five are picking him to win, although there is slight doubt now that the Whitney entry will go to the post a reigning favorite. You can't go behind this pair any more than you can go behind the nape of your neck but, barring that, Rolled Stocking is the stand-out horse of the race today.

The leaning toward Rip Rap, Black Panther and a few casual others is a mere symptom; but Rolled Stocking and the Whitney entry are an epidemic.

The colts mentioned seem to be the only ones that are given the chance of an orphan by those who are supposed to know. Osmand, winter book favorite, is not esteemed at all after straightening out like tight hope in his last race at the downs several days ago. Hydromel, a hot choice a week ago, suddenly ran a fever after a good race on Monday and now no one would take him for hacking at the depot.

Bradley Entries

The Bradley entries, Boo, Bewithus and Buddy Bauer, have everyone at the track looking down the nose at them. They say Boo won't start at all and that Buddy Bauer would be smart, if he didn't, either. Buddy ran twelfth in a field of twelve in the Preakness on Monday.

Here and there, you will find a citizen who likes Osmand and even Scapa Flow, in spite of that colt's unimpressive race at Pimlico. Dan O'Sullivan, who has seen more derbies than the original mad hatter, is sticking with Osmand and Scott Harlan persists in declaring himself on Scapa Flow, but the mob is going the other way.

As for the rest of the field, Saxon, Jock, Kiev, another winter delusion; War Eagle, Royal Julius, Candy Blackbird, Crystal Domino, Mr. Kirkwood and Fair Star, they will be among those present and unaccounted for, according to the popular idea hereabouts.

Whiskery Favored

Strange to relate, they like Whiskery better than Bostonian, in spite of the fact that the latter won the Preakness and Whiskery ran third. There is no apparent reason for this attitude except that Whiskery has the better turn of speed and may "break on top," as they say. This is an important consideration in a race like the Derby with a probable field of 18 or 20 horses to hamper the cold that likes to do his running in the stretch.

Bostonian is supposed to be this type. So is Fred, Jr. If either or both is anywhere near the pace at the mile on Saturday, there will be a lot of running done down near the grandstand. However, if they are well back at the head of the stretch, all the running in the world won't get them anything except the exercise.

Rip Rap

Rip Rap's rise to favor is unexplained by his races in the East. However, the intelligentsia hereabouts claim to have been greatly impressed by his "works" under the watch.

And then we come back to Rolled Stocking, as the male eye inevitably will. They say he was all horse in winning the last Derby trial and can run in any going or any company. That closes the book, except for the observation that no Derby within 10 years has been as open to any good horse as is the one that will take place tomorrow on the Downs.

Women to Wear One-Piece Colored Bathing Costumes

THE unrestrained, informal, almost unconventional trend of flapperism is to be seen in the new bathing suits already ordered by many local stores for spring and summer wear. The suits are flapperish in that they are of the simplified, comfortable, tight fitting and one-piece variety, the more "masculine" the more to be preferred. For the feminine however, two-piece suits will also be good, but not in the fancy, beribboned and be-decorated types. Bathing suits are all tailored, untrimmed and conspicuous only for color this spring.

Red and a combination of black and white predominate in the color arrangements although all the brilliant hues as well as the more modest plain blacks will be worn. The more 'striking' and colorful the suit the more to be desired.

Entirely new in the coy jacket effect especially designed for beach promenades. The jacket is short, several inches shorter than the bathing trousers and resembles the jackets so popular for street wear several years ago. Capes, too, hold a prominent place in the beach scene, and are shown this year in both silk and rubberized materials, the latter with cloth lining. They are shown in all colors, black being most widely displayed. Caps and shoes may also be purchased to harmonize, the caps being largely white and nearly all fashioned in the aviator style.

Noteworthy is the fact that the bathing suits are ruffled, bemashed and lavishly trimmed silk suits also are a thing of the past, the desire for freedom and almost insensible simplicity in wearing apparel having revolutionized the bathing suits in every respect save one . . . color. Suits are wholly of greens or lock stitch wool.

ANDREWS TO INQUIRE INTO BAD LITERATURE

Orders Return of Books to Importers, However, Pending New Ruling

Washington May 13—A complete investigation of the importation of risque literature into the United States has been ordered by Gen. L. C. Andrews, assistant secretary of treasury.

After a conference with importers, Andrews ordered the customs authorities at New York to release for importation a number of sets of the "Arabian Nights" and Boccaccio's "Decamaron," which were held up.

Importers were advised that they will not be permitted to order further copies of these books from abroad until the department had had time to make a ruling.

"It appeared that the identical books in question have been imported through the port of New York for several years without question,' Andrews said.

"Where a change in practice is to be inaugurated due notice will be given to importers."

In the meantime the problem will be thoroughly canvassed and principles will be laid down for the guidance of collectors of customs as to their duties in enforcing the law which forbids the importation of obscence printed matter.

Egyptian Envoy Tell How Nile is Forced to Behave

Engineer Puts All His Trust in Levees; Describes His System

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, May 12—Mahmoud Samy Pasha undoubtedly has told more floods "where to head in at" than any other man in the United States.

M. Samy is Egyptian minister to Washington.

SAMY PASHA

He's an engineer. His engineering specialty, at home, is making the Nile behave.

Regularly every year, since long before the first Pharaoh began building pyramids, the Nile has started to go on the rampage, just as the Mississippi did this year.

With equal regularity, the river control folks have taken the venerable stream in charge, adapted all the solid part of it to soil fertilization, utilized all they wanted of its liquid ingredient for irrigation purposes and emptied the rest out into the Mediterranean, as casually as you'd drain the water out of your bathtub.

• • •

OF course it mustn't be assumed that the Nile control system was as perfect when Moses was still living in Egypt as it is today.

Even then it possibly was better than our present Mississippi river system, but Samy doesn't feel that that's boasting much about it. Now, however, he assures us, it's as dependable as a flivver factory.

They simply don't have Nile valley floods, M. Samy says.

They have irrigation, because they need it, but it's regulated to a bee's knee.

• • •

M. SAMY put all his trust in levees. They have gates in them to let out such water as the crops require—that much and no more—and that's all they do let out.

They're stronger levees than the Mississippi's, and higher. They have a five-foot safety margin, instead of only two feet, as on the Mississippi. Some are set back from the river half a mile or a mile and some are not, depending on circumstances. In places there are two sets.

"Oh, yes, the initial expense is high," agrees M Samy, "but they pay for themselves."

• • •

THERE also are revetments where they're needed, and the river's course is given a certain amount of direction, but in the main the system is one of levees.

As for breaks—

"There's no danger of breaks," says M Samy, "if leaks are stopped promptly, and that's a mere question of careful watching, and having plenty of men on the job the minute they're needed."

The Egyptian government provides the men by conscription, as for military service. They don't have to be sent for. They're there. There's a jail penalty for not being.

"It works," anyway," is M. Samy's knock out answer so all the critics of the system.

• • •

M. SAMY isn't enthusiastic over headwater reservoirs.

Egypt has one of of the largest in the world—formed by the Assuan dam.

"From an engineering standpoint it's a wonderful success," says M. Samy, "but ever since it's been in operation, the region it affects has shown a steady decline in cotton and cereal yields per acre.

"I don't know why. Maybe it's just a spiteful trick of nature. At any rate, it's a poor advertisement for storage reservoir.

• • •

FORESTRY experts blame destruction of its headwater timber for the Mississippi's unmanageability.

The Nile rises in the Abyssinian mountains. They're thickly wooded, now as always. If their trees were swept away, would the Nile still be controllable?

M. Samy shrugs his shoulders. Never having tried it under circumstances, he doesn't know. Yet he has vast confidence in his well-guarded levees. It's hard to convince him Mississippi floods are inevitable.

"Keep Pores Clean"-Warn Beauty Experts
Use this Clear Soap for a Clear Skin
To have a clear, soft skin of velvet texture, watch your pores and keep them clean. Blotches, pimples and blackheads rarely trouble the skin whose pores are not left choked with face powder, dust and rouge.
For facial cleansing or for the bath, JAP ROSE SOAP is all bubbles—a mild, satiny lather that cleanses pores full depth. A dainty soap for dainty women.
To bathe regularly with this visibly pure soap, thereby keeping the pores free from all congestion, is the first rule of skin hygiene as it is taught by beauty specialists.
Proper care of the hair demands that it be shampooed with the same care. Hair washed only with Jap Rose Soap never becomes dry, brittle, dull and lifeless, but stays fluffy and lustrous. Get a cake today.

ECZEMA ON BABY'S CHEEK

Caused Loss of Sleep. Cuticura Healed.

"Eczema broke out in little pimples on my baby's left cheek. It kept getting worse and the eruptions scaled over. After a while the eruptions would break, and the irritation caused loss of sleep. At times he was very cross. The trouble lasted about six months.

"I tried several different remedies but without success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. H. D. Jeanquenat, Steward, Ill., July 3, 1926.

INDUSTRIALS, RAILS DISPLAY STRENGTH

Aggressive Bidding Results in Price Gains from 2 to 15 Points

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks, strong; industrial stocks, steady; domestic bonds, steady; foreign bonds, irregular; call money, 4½ per cent; grain, irregular; copper, steady; oil, weak; cotton, strong; rubber, steady; sugar, steady; pig iron steady; foreign exchange, steady.

New York, May 13—Conspicuous strength and activity was displayed by the speculative leaders in the railroad, motor and industrial stocks today. Aggressive bidding for these stocks by the professionals, in some cases for the purpose of short covering, resulted in price gains of from 2 to 15 points.

While the weekly exhibit of general financial conditions as expressed by the reserve bank reports was favorable, there was nothing of a particularly bullish nature in the news of the day. The call loan rate was marked up at 4 1-2 per cent shortly after midday, and funds were withdrawn from the speculative market chiefly for the purpose of balancing reserves of the New York banks preparatory to the weekly bank statement. An important oil producer, Simms petroleum, passed the usual annual dividend.

The sensational advance of New York, Chicago and St. Louis (Nickel Plate) railway stock to 222, for a new gain of 16 points, was due entirely to developments affecting the stockholders of that company. With the free distribution of stock of the newly organized Chesapeake corporation to Nickel Plate stockholders all the equities of that corporation above the $48,000,000 recently borrowed will accrue to them. If the Pere Marquette stock holdings of the Van Sweringen brothers are similarly split, a juicy melon will also be forthcoming.

While Nickel Plate stock has been gradually advancing on that prospect, tabulations made today appeared to show that the stock was much more valuable than current market quotations. It was figured that the equities of each share of Nickel Plate in the other railroad shares was about $133, leaving a margin of only $71 a share for Nickel Plate property and earning capacity, at yesterday's closing quotation of 204. The prompt advance of the stock to 222 represented at least a partial effort to arrive at an approximately correct appraisal of the value of the stock.

Wheat will grow over a larger area of the earth's surface than almost any other known plant.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Plenty of green vegetables with no change in prices and a normal demand, was the report from local markets today. The gradual clearing up of the flooded district where a large part of the green vegetables supplying the local markets are raised, is given by dealers as the reason for the steady supply. Water cress, parsnips endive, celery cabbage and kale have disappeared from the market.

Strawberries still are quoted at 25 cents with a good supply and a generous demand. Bananas are selling at three pounds for 25 cents and lemons 35 cents a dozen. Pineapples are being quoted at 25 and 30 cents.

A drop in price of three cents on pork chops and five cents on boiled ham were the only changes reported by local meat dealers the former being quoted at 25 and 30 cents and the latter at 60 cents. A short supply with correspondingly high wholesale prices, keep retail prices up dealers say.

PLANS CONCERT

Epworth Orchestra To Play Sunday Night at Church

Members of Epworth Orchestra will present their seventeenth annual concert at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night at the church. An interesting number on the program is "Eroica," by Beethoven, which was written in 1795 and first reproduced in 1804 at Vienna.

The symphony was written honoring Napoleon Bonaparte and was originally called "Grand Symphony Napoleon Bonaparte." After Napoleon was made emperor it so disappointed Beethoven that he tore off the original title and changed it to "Eroica."

LOCAL HOUSING SURVEY SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Check Conducted by Marion Real Estate Board Indicates Advancement

A general improvement in housing conditions with a marked decrease in the number of desirable dwellings, is the summary of the survey made recently by members of the Marion Real Estate Board and the tabulation of which has just been completed by the chamber of commerce.

An interesting feature brought to light by the survey is that of all vacant property in the city, including dwellings, store rooms, apartments and office rooms, approximately one-third is made up of undesirable dwellings and a creditable decrease in the number of such homes over last year, is shown in the report.

The decrease in the number of desirable homes over last year's is made more interesting by the fact that there are at the present time 51 new dwellings completed since the taking of the survey last November.

The number of houses unfit for occupancy are shown to be the same as last year while an unusual demand for partly modern homes not on paved streets has brought down the number since last fall. This is explained by real estate men who say that in the spring there is usually a tendency on the part of those occupying high priced apartments to move to a dwelling costing less rent. An increase in the number of vacant apartments, bears out this explanation.

The greatest reduction is in modern homes with garages not on a paved street. This is most noticeable in that part of the city south of Center st and west of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

CHILDREN WORK TO HOLD LEVEE AT MORGANSEA

Three Washouts Exhaust Energies of Male Population in Little Village

Baton Rouge, La., May 13—Three more levees gave way today before the pressure of the terrific Mississippi flood waters.

The big bend levee crashed at Moreauville, allowing a wall of water eight feet deep and more than 200 feet wide to sweep through and inundate the countryside for miles around.

The second break was reported at Bordelonville, in Avoyelles Parish, 12 miles from the Moreauville Crevasse. The third break was at a point three miles east of Moreauville.

• • •

Washington, May 13—The flood situation was discussed at a White House breakfast this morning between President Coolidge and a number of Republican and Democratic senators and representatives.

The guests were Senators Warren, Republican, of Wyoming; Borah, Republican, of Idaho; Broussard, Democrat, of Louisiana; Oddie, Republican, of Nevada; Gillett, Republican, of Massachusetts; Swanson, Democrat, of Virginia, and Representatives Madden, Republican, of Illinois; French, Republican, of Idaho; Mapes, Republican, of Michigan; Johnson, Republican, of South Dakota; Black Democrat, of Texas; Bowman, Republican, of West Virginia, and Faust, Republican, of Missouri, and William Tyler Page, clerk of the house.

• • •

Baton Rouge, La., May 13.—School children of Morganzea were thrown into the front line of levee defenders today along the west bank of the Mississippi on the Pointe Coupe Parish, 20 miles from here. Three successive levee washouts along a five-mile stretch near the tiny village since Monday exhausted the energies of the male population of the community and forced them to call upon their children for relief stints in the desperate fight against the still rising main channel.

Morganzea, a village of 350 persons, is approximately 30 miles south of the Bayou Des Glaises levees, on the eastern edge of which the grim struggle against the flood waters from northeastern Louisiana continues this morning despite the Cottonport break yesterday which cut a hundred foot channel three feet deep through the western extremity of the Bayou barrier.

Waters from the Cottonport Crevasse, in Avoyelles Parish and 35 miles in from the Mississippi, had spread a shallow layer southward and eastward today to the northern boundary of St. Landry Parish. The city of Cottonport was under three feet of water. Reports to relief headquarters here were that the opening likely could not widen fast enought to prevent a larger break in the Bayou levees to the east.

Moving to Safety

Cottonport is at the extreme western edge of the Louisiana area flooded from the north. Overnight studies of the topography convinced engineers that the volume of water released there would not be sufficient to relieve the eastern stretches of the levee where the water already was washing over at several points, the menacing surface still rises hourly. Pointe Coupe Parish, with an area of 526 square miles and a population of 25,000, would be almost entirely inundated by a break at Morganzea, according to reports to relief headquarters.

Half an hour after the Cottonport break, coast guard cutters with long tows of 18 men flat bottomed skiffs were at the scene taking on those immediately behind the crevasse. Many throughout adjoining parishes who had refused to heed the evacuation orders were moved to preparations by the news of the break.

Ready for Flight

Today small boats stand on dry land before hundreds of houses or are anchored at easy distance. In northern St. Landry, many farmers have packed immigrant bundles of food, matches, medical supplies and precious possessions ready for flight when the waters are actually upon them. The refusal of thousands of the threatened region to move out in advance of breaks presents one of the most difficult problems facing rescue agencies in every parish in which warnings have been broadcast, said Relief Director Parker. The majority of the population has evacuated, but those willing to take their chances with the waters are enough to give the relief headquarters serious concern.

During the 14th and 15 centuries Holland suffered from many great floods, in several of which the loss of life exceeded 100,000 persons.

Robin Refuses to Budge from Nest in Excavator

BIRDS are like human beings in one respect—they sometimes make mistakes in picking out their places of abode.

This has been ascertained on Brightwood-dr, near Mt. Vernon-av, where a robin recently built its nest in the top of an excavating machine being used in sewer construction work.

It was a cosy and quiet spot when first selected by the robin but later developments showed that the location was not so desirable.

The excavator which is of the revolving type, whirls and tips on its axis as dirt is brought up from the sewer trench, and the turbulent gyrations continue unceasingly throughout the day.

Frequent blasts of high explosives used to loosen rock add to the commotion and din and detract from the bird's comfort.

Refuses To Vacate

But the robin refuses to vacate. During the greater part of each day it sits serenely in its precarious roost, located directly beneath the excavator roof.

Occasionally it ventures forth in search of food and recreation but returns after a brief outing to complete the period necessary for hatching out the nest of eggs which will finally bring forth baby robins, provided the excavating machine does not become too violent in its operations.

Workmen and contractor in charge of the sewer construction are more concerned over the robin's welfare than the robin itself, according to George Robertson, city inspector who reported the unusual case to The Star today.

James Hogg, the famous poet shepherd of Ettrick, was born in the month of November and changed his birthday to that of Robert Burns, January 25.

It is estimated that by midsummer 30,000 miles of connecting air lines will be operating regularly in Europe, Asia and Northern Africa.

They Said "IMPOSSIBLE"—Yet the Haags Did It!

When the announcement was made that the famous Haag Vortex washer was to be further improved, nearly everyone said, "There is no possible way of making it more perfect than it now is."

But—with the aid of the recommendations of 10,000 women, the Haag Brothers actually have done it!

All the exclusive Haag Vortex features have been retained—including the patented agitator base which prevents damaging of fabrics.

Among the new features is the double-tub construction—a stainless nickel-lined copper tub encased in a galvanized jacket—rust-proof and dent-proof—with air space in between. This keeps the water hotter and aids washing.

The finish, too, has been improved. There is new beauty, new grace, and new efficiency.

Any Haag dealer will gladly do your next washing without obligation in your home with a Haag Vortex. Phone today for this convincing proof.
